NAZI WARSHIPS IN AMERICAN WATERS, CHURCHILL REVEALS

O.S.R. Fugitives Captured In W. Virginia

TRIO JAILED 4 DAYS AFTER PRISON BREAK

Inmates Surrender as They Reach Blockade; Car of Mansfielder Recovered.

FACING THEFT CHARGES

Sheriff Leaves To Return Youths, Bears Warrants Charging Car Theft.

Climaxing a four-day foray during which they threatened at least two persons with butcher knives, three Ohio State Reformatory fugitives were behind bars in Ripley, W. Va., today.

The trio was apprehended by state police shortly after an automobile taken from Harold Schnittke, 24, of 78 South Foster street, Saturday near Perrysville, was found abandoned near Ripley.

Richland County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz said the fugitives would be returned to Mansfield to face charges of auto theft. The charges were filed in municipal court today by Burke Schnittke, 146 South Main street, whose car his brother, Harold, was driving when he was abducted.

Lutz said it was quite possible the cases may be submitted to the grand jury which is now in session.

Sheriff Frank Robinson and two deputies, John Whitcomb and J. R. Hetler, armed with warrants, left immediately for Ripley to return the trio.

Meanwhile Supt Arthur L. Glattke of the reformatory, notified of the capture, said priority would be granted Richland county officials in prosecution.

Dispatches from Ripley said the fugitives surrendered without resistance when they ran into a road blockade thrown up to effect their capture following discovery of the abandoned car.

The prisoners, all trusties who had been granted paroles, were Ronald Long, 24, Hamilton county robber, and Elwood Deckerhoff, 24, and James Layton, 26, both Columbiana county bandits.

They fled from the farm dormitory last Thursday at midnight

Players Present 'What A Life' At Simpson Tonight

Moving curtain-time back 15 minutes from the usual hour, the Mansfield Community Players tonight will present their final production of the season, Clifford Goldsmith's "What A Life," at 8:30 in John Simpson auditorium.

The play is the original "Henry Aldrich" comedy as first presented on Broadway with Ezra Stone in the leading role and visitors to rehearsals by the local group have commented on the remarkable resemblance between the tricks of voice used by Richard Grudier who plays the role tonight and those of Stone.

Up to last night 800 seats had been sold for the show which details the adventures that can befall one student and his teachers in a day at a typical American high school. Seats will be available today at Tawse's pharmacy until 5 p. m. and at the box office during the evening.

With "What A Life" Mrs E. K. Bacon concludes ten years as director for the players. Sets for tonight's show were built by Harry "Bud" Devine.

Mine Union Heads Debate On Shutdown

Consider Steps to Take If March 31 Fails to Bring Contract.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The question of uninterrupted operation of the nation's bituminous coal mines during negotiations for a operator-miner contract to replace the one expiring March 31 will be considered today at a meeting of the policy committee of the United Mine Workers of America (CIO).

John L. Lewis, head of the UMWA, summoned the 125 members of the committee to meet at 5 p. m. (EST) as a joint subcommittee representing miners and operators resumed discussions.

The operators of the 8-state Appalachian area last week rejected a Lewis proposal for continued operation of the mines in the event the negotiations continued past March 31.

They objected principally, they said, to a provision of the Lewis proposal to make retroactive to April 1 any wage increases or improvement in working conditions which might be agreed upon.

Two years ago, when the present agreement was under negotiation past the deadline, a prolonger work stoppage resulted.

Lewis declined to indicate what course of action the policy committee might pursue, other than to say that miner members of the subcommittee would report on the progress of the negotiations.

Spokesmen said the discussions were general thus far and there had been little talk of specific proposals except relative costs of the miners' demand for a blanket $1-a-day wage increase.

Meanwhile two quick governmental moves to counteract strike delays in defense industries were expected generally by official Washington today.

Army sources predicted that the

APPROVES CLASS

School Board OK's 279 For Senior High Graduation.

It's nearly three months until the June commencement time, but the Mansfield board of education last night put its tentative approval on 279 Senior high school pupils for graduation next June 5.

The prospective graduating class, which includes 130 boys and 149 girls, is much smaller than last year's class which had 302 members.

Supt. W. L. Miller said commencement exercises will be held at Stadium field again unless inclement weather brings a change in plans. He said no arrangements have been made yet for a commencement speaker.

The board's action in approving the class for graduation empowered Supt. Miller to withhold the diploma of any senior who fails to meet the requirements between now and commencement time.

125 ON WAY TO DEFENSE JOBS HURT IN WRECK

Fast Freight Rams Commuter Train Carrying 600 To Ravenna Shell Plant.

BROADSIDE COLLISION

Ambulances Rushed to Scene From Nearby Towns Take Men to Hospitals.

(By Associated Press)

WINDHAM, O.—An Erie railroad freight train today crashed broadside into a commuter train carrying 600 construction workers to the war department's $15,000,000 Ravenna shell-loading plant.

At least 125 men were injured, about 40 seriously.

The collision occurred within the 24,000-acre government reservation, where thousands of workers this fall will begin turning out shells at the rate of a million rounds a month.

The westbound 10-coach commuter train, bringing men from Youngstown, was leaving the main Cleveland-Youngstown tracks and backing into the arsenal station, an Erie railroad spokesman said.

To do this the passenger train had to back across the eastbound tracks. The freight locomotive, going east, struck the commuter train at about its middle. Five coaches were derailed.

The freight locomotive crashed onto its side and 10 freight cars left the tracks. The crash occurred at 7:06 a. m.

Ambulances were rushed to the wreck scene from nearby cities.

Hospitals at Warren, Youngstown and Ravenna, as well as the army's field hospital within the government reservation, received the injured.

The Erie said its information indicated that none of the trainmen, either on the freight or on the commuter train, was injured.

Warren hospitals said some of the men brought there by bus had only bruises to show for their experience.

The wreck came only 34 hours after a derailment on the Penn-

MEASLES CASES REPORTED HERE

Health Department Learns of 12,000 In State.

While the rest of the state suffers from a measles epidemic which already numbers more than 20,000 cases, Mansfield, according to Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, has not yet felt it.

"Of course we expect it soon," said Rehder. "We are probably right on the threshold of having a great number of cases. So far, however, only a dozen have been reported in the past week."

Up until last Friday, only four cases had been reported for the city and Richland county.

Jobs, Clothing Offered To Family Of 8 Stranded Here

Sheltered from the cold for the second day and night by the Salvation Army, the family of Charles Koston, 45, Salem, Mass., a painter, awaited the results of two days of job-hunting on the part of the husband and father.

Koston, his 30-year old wife and six children, ranging in age from four months to 10 years, arrived at Army headquarters half-frozen in Sunday night's blizzard.

Promises of two jobs kept the family here overnight Monday and in the event neither one materializes the family will be started on its way back to Salem by Salvation Army Adjutant Paul Hoffman.

Donations of clothing for the family, which arrived thinly clad and without galoshes or overshoes, have been received, Adjutant Hoffman said. In addition, there was a $10 contribution for lodging.

Last night the family was taken to the Folks Lodging House and returned to Army headquarters for meals today.

The Kostons left Salem six months ago and have been on the road since with the exception of two months while detained in Pittsburgh by the birth of a son.

A painter by trade, Koston told Adjutant Hoffman he would be willing to do any kind of work. "Just so it's a job," he said.

BREAK'S DUE IN FRIGID BLAST

Weatherman Says Cold Wave Will Ease Off Tonight; Warmer Tomorrow.

Mansfield residents, entering the third day of a cold spell which took at least 72 lives in the midwest, were promised relief tonight as a definite break in record-low temperatures appeared.

The mercury began a slow climb from 5 degrees above zero during the night to 15 degrees at 11 a. m. The reading gave Mansfield a record low for two successive days and was listed as one of the lowest in the state.

Snow flurries in the afternoon accompanied by a howling wind subsided later in the day.

The city street department was called out to salt dangerous hills in the city. Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton announced that another carload of salt had been ordered. Three-quarters of a carload was used in the sudden freeze Sunday night.

The forecast for tonight is fair and not so cold with increasing cloudiness and warmer tomorrow and Thursday. A rise to 20 or 25 degrees is predicted through the day.

PROPOSE NEW PAY PLAN IN CITY SCHOOLS

Teachers' Committee Seeks Board's Approval of Single-Salary Schedule.

WOULD INCREASE COSTS

Plan Would Set Up Same Pay For Teachers With Same Training, Experience.

A five-member committee representing the Mansfield Teachers' association last night asked the board of education to set up the single-salary plan of paying teachers which would enable a grade school teacher to earn the same amount as a high school instructor with the same training and experience.

Providing pay increases for a number of elementary school teachers, the plan would bring a sharp increase in the schools' operating costs, board of education members said.

The plan would enable teachers in any of the schools to earn a maximum of $2,100 a year if they had a masters degree and at least 16 years' teaching experience. The present maximum is $2,100 in Senior high school, $1,800 in junior high, and $1,700 for grade school instructors.

The board's answer to the request last night was a promise to study the proposal and discuss it again with the Teachers' association committee.

"The ultimate answer is in the amount of money the schools can see available for operation in the next five years," Supt. W. L. Miller told the group.

The superintendent said he is making a study of the probable effect the plan would have on the schools' financial set-up, but he would make no prediction as to the salary increase it might bring. Salaries of teachers, supervisors, and principals now total approximately $400,000 a year.

REVENUE DOWN

Real Estate Tax Payments To Be $20,000 Less In County.

Real estate tax collections which total $502,079 to date are expected to fall $20,000 short of the $675,700 collected last year when the county treasurer closes his books Thursday, it was predicted today.

Deputies said the decrease was anticipated due to a downward revision of some rates in the county.

Meanwhile, however, personal and classified tax collections which close April 1 are expected to top last year's figures.

A total of 1,500 persons, 200 more than the number registered on the same date a year ago, have already filed returns, Deputy Auditor Arthur Beck said. Collections to date total $30,010.

Hurls Charge As U. S. Hears U-Boat Report

Unidentified Washington Sources Say Long-Range Submarines Head for Eastern Atlantic Coast, But Berlin Scoffs at Report.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles confirmed today that Lord Halifax, British ambassador, brought to the state department a report that a German submarine was headed for the northern coast of the United States.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler has sent "not only German U-boats but German battle cruisers" across the Atlantic to prowl in American waters, it was declared in London by Prime Minister Winston Churchill today.

The British premier said the Nazi overseas raiders "have already sunk some of our independently routed ships not sailing in convoy." His statement followed information received by the United States at least one long-range Nazi U-boat was heading across the Atlantic to prey on shipping off the American coast.

Churchill also disclosed that three German submarines were sunk yesterday, and in passing this news to United States Ambassador John G. Winant, he commented:

"Not since October, 1939, have I been cheered by such a triple event."

At the same time, Hitler's high command reported slashing new blows against Britain's vital convoy system.

Authorized quarters in Berlin were quick to scoff at the U-boat report, declaring it was a "put-up job by American war inciters . . . clumsy propaganda" and adding:

"We are not so naive as to attack the United States with a U-boat."

The Nazi high command said a German submarine sank five armed merchant ships totalling 35,300 tons in an attack on a convoy, and that a 4,000-ton merchantman had been sent to the bottom in the North sea.

Washington reports said at least one German submarine was en route to United States coastal waters — perhaps the forerunner of others such as assailed American ships in the World war.

In London, the admiralty recorded another heavy toll of shipping losses—25 ships totalling 98,832 tons for the week ending March 3—and a spokesman declared:

"We must be prepared to face

Engagement Not Binding As Marriage

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Girls sometimes write me that they regard their engagements as seriously as if all the vows had been spoken. To them an engagement means the same as marriage. The men to whom they are betrothed become their husbands in fact.

Leaving out all questions of morals and considering only worldly interests and hard common-sense, I wonder what the reactions of these easily convinced young women are when they read in the papers of the tragi-comedies which result from such an arrangement.

Newspaper dispatches a few days ago gave lively account of the wooing of a country banker and a young cashier. At least she was young and pretty when the wooing began, 13 years ago, and she agreed to one of these sacred-as-marriage affairs. She is now suing him for $100,000 damages.

It would be cruel to give the name of this woman, no longer young, and shedding the unbecoming tears of middle-age in court to a jury. Frequently she went on long vacation trips with the country banker, where they registered at various hotels as Mr. and Mrs. On these vacations lobsters and fine wines were ordered liberally. And the girl seems to have regarded such expensive viands as the equivalent of a wedding ring.

The banker's experience recalls the predicament in which Mr. Pickwick found himself after sending the well-known message to his housekeeper, "Chops and tomato sauce." But the lobsters and champagne stood for nothing more serious in the banker's life than did chops and tomato sauce to Dickens' hero.

On a balmy June night some few years back, the banker proposed marriage, according to the testimony of the plaintiff. He said the usual thing. Their love was different and meant more to him than anything else, but he did not say what is usually said by gentlemen in such circumstances that his "wife never understood him," for at the time he was still married and his wife had not secured a divorce. However, he gave the girl a "temporary" engagement ring of diamonds and sapphires.

Whenever the young lady brought up the question of marriage, which she did with some persistency after his wife divorced him, he always had an excuse. Finally, after all these years of ardent wooing, he told her he had changed his mind and was not going to marry her. She told him he had made her the object of pity and censure, and promptly filed suit.

The headlines recently revealed a similar suit. This time the young man is of the very inner circle of what was formerly known as the "Four Hundred." Again it was one of these "sacred-as-marriage engagements." They went to Elkton, but the scion of the Four Hundred backed out at the last minute, his excuse being that his name was too important to be chronicled in such a place as Elkton. It would cause talk. So they went somewhere else and took their marriage vows without benefit of clergy. I believe a large square-cut diamond sealed the agreement.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I LOOKED at Ronald with purposeful pity in my glance.

"And you've known Marion all these years!" I said, infusing a soupcon of scorn into my voice.

He winced, but into his eyes there came a flash of hope, and his voice was eager.

"Oh! if I could only believe what you do!" he said wildly. Then despair seized him again.

"But, don't you see what that means if it is true?" he asked.

"It means that she is in terrible danger," I returned with a composure I was far from feeling.

"Then that's worse than the other," he said. "I can't hope you're right. It would be wishing for her death!"

His eyes were tortured, pleading, and I had hard work wielding the scalpel.

"Her death would be preferable to her infamy," I said. "And any man or woman who lets an evil infatuation compel them to wound unto death those who are nearest and dearest to them is infamous. Marion is not that. I never will believe it!"

"But I wouldn't want Marion to marry me if she felt that way about another man," he said slowly, patently still in a mental fog because of this awful thing which had befallen him.

"Do you think I would want that?" I retorted. "But, even supposing she had fallen in love with this other man. Marion is not the girl to be so carried off her feet as to enter into a clandestine association such as this letter and her disappearance appear to indicate. She would be very sure of her own feeling before she told you and her parents about it. And she never, never, never, would write you a letter like that! She would face you honestly, and tell you the truth. And she never would cause her mother the mental anguish which she knows her disappearance would cause, to say nothing of leaving the stigma on her name at college. No, no, Ronald. I am right about this thing and you are wrong. I am sure of it."

"Oh, if only you are right!" he exclaimed. "I would be so glad to be proven wrong!"

"I know that," I told him, "and I want to ask you a question. You said something about this thing coming out of a clear sky. How long before this letter came had you heard from her?"

"Why I'd seen her less than a week before at the college," he said. "I wrote her, as always, as soon as I reached home, and was looking for a reply from her. It didn't come on the day I expected it, but then she's sometimes delayed, so I didn't worry. And then that thing came."

"Did you notice any difference in her when you went up to see her?"

He flushed to the roots of his hair.

"Not a thing, except that she seemed sweeter than ever, if possible."

His voice was so mournful, that I steeled my determination to make him look at things my way.

"And you believed that she could change from a high-minded loving girl, to a dastardly and whining coward in a week!" I told him scornfully. "Shame on you! Ronald!"

"I only hope you can prove you have the right to say that," he told me, flinging his head up bravely.

"I shall, never fear," I said. "When did you get this?"

"Ten days ago," he said. "It came special delivery to our box in town, and I went down after it. She always sent my letters that way when she'd been delayed in writing. Then I got them the same day they were written."

"This is only the enclosure," I said. "Where is the envelope?"

"I must have thrown it away," he said, then regarded me more attentively.

"Why do you ask?" he added.

"I wanted to know about the postmark," I countered. "Was it Weirhampton?"

Carmel Pecan Pie Directions

By BETSY NEWMAN

LET'S top off a perfectly good vegetable plate meal with a caramel pecan pie. Then we'll get vitamins and proteins too.

Today's Menu.

Baked Potatoes Buttered Beets
Broccoli Cabbage Salad
Caramel Pecan Pie Coffee

Caramel Pecan Pie.

¾ cup sugar, caramelized
1½ cups boiling water
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped pecans
Pinch salt
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1²⁄₃ cups evaporated milk or rich fresh milk
2 eggs

To caramelize sugar, heat heavy frying pan and sift sugar into it slowly, shake occasionally while it is melting to prevent burning. When sugar is completely melted and a deep amber color, add boiling water slowly and boil until caramel is dissolved. Mix cornstarch and salt. Add milk a little at a time, stirring to blend well, then stir in caramel syrup. Cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring frequently; cover and cook 15 minutes longer. Add a little of the hot cornstarch mixture to the beaten egg yolks, then stir into the cornstarch mixture, and cook 3 minutes longer; remove from heat, add vanilla and nuts, and pour into baked pie shell. Add pinch of salt to egg whites and beat until frothy, add ¼ cup sugar a little at a time, and continue beating until meringue will hold a peak. Top pie with meringue and bake in 300 degree F. oven until delicately brown, about 20 minutes.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, March 19.

JUDGING by the lunar transits this day may be expected to develop some rather adverse and trying situations. While there may be much initiative in putting over important objectives, yet there may be disintegrating and tricky conditions to cope with, possibly by methods of compromise or perhaps connivance. A similar state of affairs may obtain in the private, domestic, affectional or social life. Prudence and discretion are enjoined in all personal contacts.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a fairly lively and productive year with some new and important projects getting favorably under way. However, there may be difficult and frustrating situations to cope with, with treachery, fraud and subterfuge to handle with kindred shrewdness and intrigue. Private associations in domestic, social and affectional contacts also require tact, finesse, and possibly compromise.

A child born on this day may be energetic, enterprising and have fine constructive ability but may encounter many trying and treacherous conditions to test its stamina. A similar adverse condition may prevail in its intimate relations, calling for vigilance and discretion.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

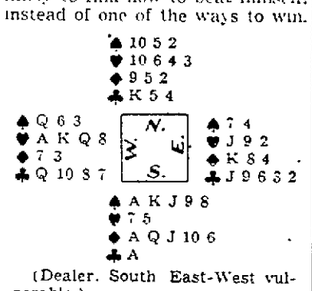
"The Authority on Authorities"

TWO WAYS TO MEET IT

Sometimes a contract can be made in either of two entirely different ways, one of them emphasizing foresight to prepare for an approaching situation and the other resourcefulness to cope with a problem which might have been prevented. But the player who lacks both of these qualities is likely to find how to beat himself, instead of one of the ways to win.



(Dealer, South East-West vulnerable)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

That was the bidding at one table of a duplicate. South was pretty lucky his partner kept it open with that weak hand. At other tables South opened with 2-Spades, but all reached game. In every case West started with three heart honor leads. All of the declarers saw they could make the contract if they lost one trump trick, but could get into the dummy and finesse diamonds successfully.

One declarer, to help make the spade 10 an entry to dummy, used keen foresight in ruffing the third heard with the J, so as to leave himself two trumps smaller than the 10. He then played the spade A, club A and spade 9. West took this with his Q and led his last heart, the 10 being ruffed by the spade 7 and over-ruffed by the K. The spade 8 to the 10 now enabled the declarer to finesse the diamond 9 and make his contract.

The other two Souths impetuously ruffed the third heart with the spade 8. One of these then laid down the spade A and club A, then led the spade 9 to the Q. West returned his spade 6, and South was locked in his hand, unable to under-play the spade 10, so had to lose the setting diamond at the end.

The third South also, carelessly ruffed the third heart low, then laid down the club A and the spade A and K. When he led the spade 9 West had to win with the Q and then lead. If he chose a heart or club, declarer would be in the dummy, so he picked a diamond and that was just as good as if declarer were leading diamonds himself. So he too made his contract, by an entirely different route from the first one.

Persistance Reduces Weight

By MME. QUI VIVE

We rush, this day, to the defense of the plump girls. They have much to bear. It is bad enough to have to tote around an excess load of adipose tissue, but it is even worse to be abused by one's family, the members of the home circle suggesting that laziness may be the cause or, if not that, then raiding the refrigerator. It's libelous.

The plumpies protest vociferously. One may be active at house work, plodding the usual treadmill of domestic duties; another may be a light eater. Of course, the first one does not get much muscular activity. At slow, measured movements, fat cells laugh. Before vigorous muscular exertion they evaporate. The roly-poly who is the boss of the house keeps busy; you can't accuse her of laziness, but her activities are not the kind that will shoe off the excess curves or bring a glowing encouraging report from the bathroom scales.

The light eater manages to concentrate on foods that are not burned up but are stored away in the body. It isn't how much one eats, but what one eats. A peck of spinach won't add to weight, but a couple of pats of butter on nice hot wheatcakes will. There are appetizing foods that satisfy and create energy, but will not build human suet. Reducing is possible without much deprivation.

A muscle is composed of fibers; each little fiber is a heating plant. When you use your arm to lift a weight, the muscles contract lengthwise and expand sidewise. If you will lift the weight for short periods each day, this changing of the muscles contour will scatter any fat cells that are lodging there. The cells are crushed by muscle movement.

Exercise, together with a restricted diet, will overcome obesity. It must be the right kind of exercise, regular and continued for some time and there must be no falling off the diet wagon. That's the big trouble. A woman will follow reducing rules for weeks, then go on a grocery binge and regain all that she has lost. A strong will is the first need in slenderizing a figure that has gone circular.

The reducer won't get any place if she stays in bed late in the mornings or has a catnap during the day. During sleep the fat cells multiply, and when they're well-packed among the internal organs as well as along the body surface they put up resistance. That is why the sensible woman, finding that she must get her frocks one size larger than those she has been wearing, does not delay. She starts a war at once, before the enemy gets too strong.

Fat-forming food elements are sweets, fats and starches. We need these foods for building energy, but they should be cut down. Limit the intake of white bread, butter, cream, potatoes, cereals, pastries; a strong, healthy woman can delete them entirely for a time.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Legends of Broadway.

(No. 1—The Bad Boys and Their Strange Laughter.)

Once, not so long ago, Broadway was a happy playground for an odd group of kiddies. Although some were blue-eyed and some were flaxen-haired, they were a grim lot—and I don't mean Grimm's Fairy Tales.

Eilgallen.

Unlike the children in our side street playgrounds, these kiddies were broad in the shoulders, heavy in the jowl, and flashy in attire; and instead of marbles and tops in their jeans, these lads carried a curious toy known as a "gat." In a slower era, a Hans Christian Anderson or brothers such as the Grimm's would have spun elfin yarns about them—about them and a brush-mustachio'd prince, yclept Tom Dewey, who rode out of the West in thunderous fashion and stopped their pranks and stilled their laughter and spread them out and banished them to Never-Never places with such musical names as Sing Sing and Dannamora.

Their laughter was the laughter of the well-fed; it was a strange laughter that gathered momentum and achieved pitch when sprayed with tears other than their own. It was a little like the laughter of the loon. Some thought they were the reincarnation of the rats that the Pied Piper of Hamlin piped into the sea ever so long ago. Remember? Remember what made them laugh?

Larry Fay wasn't like the other boys. He wouldn't play with fire. He liked mechanics and farming—so his games were all concerned with taxicabs and milk. Bright shiny cabs, and white gallons of milk. He made a lot of money with these playthings and he opened a night club so he could play a different game at night. When the night club had been open a week, the press agent presented his bill. Here, Larry showed his sense of humor.

He took the lad to the head of the stairs, talking to him kindly and holding him affectionately by the arm. When they reached the stairs, Larry swung the boy by the same arm and tossed him down the flight.

Larry's playmate roared with laughter. Larry was a card, wasn't he?

The press agent's leg was broken and when he left the hospital he had a permanent limp. Even then, Larry's sense of humor was evident. He paid the boy's bill and took him back to work with this funny crack:

"Call me Larry, kid—I'll call you Gimpy!"

Jack Diamond — there was a hilarious lad. You had to admire his sense of the ridiculous. The kids from the other side of the tracks used to have lots of fun by spraying leaden slugs into Jack's stomach, and for every little leaden slug he carried in his stomach, Jack had a funny idea.

Once when it became necessary to eliminate a bad boy from Jersey, Jack ordered that before he was sent to his Maker the lads were to crop his hair close to his scalp with clippers.

Never was the boyish laughter louder. Some experts considered it Jack's masterpiece of humor.

You see, this fellow who was to die had wavy chestnut locks and was considered a handsome Dream Prince. And when Jack pointed out to the boys how funny it would be when the victim's sweetheart saw him lying with a shaved pate in the funeral parlor—well, they simply screamed.

Dutch Goldberg, or Dutch Shomberg as he was sometimes called, didn't talk much—he was always too busy eating. He was, in fact, a prodigious eater, and the kiddies admired that quality.

Now, although Dutch was a silent lad, he could break up almost any gathering with his gag. It was a standard with Dutch; the other lads tried the trick again and again, but just didn't have the technique.

When anyone annoyed Dutch—say a waiter or a busboy—he folded the little finger and the one next to it against his thumb into the palm of his hand. He kept the forefinger and the middle finger rigid and then thrust them, prong-like, into the eyes of the offender.

The fellow usually lost an eye—but it was a very funny gag. The boys all agreed it was a very funny gag.

It's too bad—for the boys—that the boys aren't around any more.

SPURS WORKERS IN CIVIC MUSIC MEMBER DRIVE

Bromfield Tells Them 'Nothing More Important Than Music' at Dinner Address.

Men and women conducting the fifth annual Civic Music association membership drive for the 1941-42 concert series had enthusiasm in their task kindled Tuesday night at the annual workers' dinner-meeting at Grace Episcopal church. The campaign opened yesterday.

One hundred and eighteen of the 185 workers were present to hear Author Louis Bromfield sound the keynote of the campaign when he said, "There is nothing more important than music."

Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, association president, Mrs. Paul F. Cropper, general chairman of the campaign, and other association officers and community leaders expressed themselves likewise.

"We have in America at this time," said Bromfield, "a great many responsibilities thrust upon us. We are the only country upon which war has not laid a heavy hand and it is up to us to carry on here, to keep the flame burning and hold the fort."

Bromfield pledged his own cooperation by asking the association "to call upon me for time, or money or whatever is needed."

Dr. Fonkalsrud presided. He presented Mrs. Cropper, for three years active chairman of the drive, who in turn introduced her six majors. These included Mrs. Thornton Moore, Mrs. E. D. Gibson, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. D. O. Meese and the Misses Hester and Florence McDonald.

Speaking in regard to the campaign and calling attention to the need of another concert series here next season were: Attorney C. H. Henkel, Rev. D. N. Roller, chairman of the Community Fund, Robert Remy, of the Chamber of Commerce, Rev. Glen Lewis, vice president of the Civic Music association, John W. Graham, general manager of the Mansfield News-Journal and Albert Arnold, treasurer of the association.

Mrs. Mercedes Walker, representing Civic Music's New York headquarters, coached the workers on campaign procedure, declaring that "last year's success is a challenge to us to keep a full house."

Mrs. Walker spoke of some of the artists available next year, mentioning in particular Ruth Draper and Oscar Levant.

She called attention to a checkup Wednesday at campaign headquarters, the Ohio Fuel Gas company office, and said reports would be accepted until Saturday at 9 p. m.

At the outset of the program, Rev. Lewis offered prayer and Mrs. Lawrence S. Frank directed the singing of a pep song with Mr. Frank as accompanist.

The makings of a temperamental actor was discovered at John Simpson Junior high school when a skit from Robin Hood scheduled to be produced over the public address system at the school lost its "Robin Hood." When the time came for the skit to be produced the lad just wasn't to be found. So in this case part of the show "did not go on," much to the discomfiture of the other members of the skit.

Mansfield industries are emphasized in the art posters being completed by six junior and senior boys of St. Peter's school for entry in the American Magazine Youth Forum competition. Based on the theme "What Does Our Locality Contribute to the Nation?" the posters are the work of Phillip Deibler, Robert Kurtzman, Robert Graf, Robert Gossom, Paul Schadek and Robert Graham. Sister Floriana, art supervisor, said that winner of the contest will receive a trip to New York as first prize.

If you want to know what's happening to the cost of living, you can check with the Chamber of Commerce in the future. The Chamber announced in its monthly bulletin, released today, that it was instituting a check on fluctuations in costs of living essentials, in line with the federal government's announced effort to maintain "fair and reasonable" price levels, to prevent profiteering.

LONE SHIFT IN SENATE TO TIE UP ENACTMENT

Republican Leader Predicts All 19 Votes Will Go For Bricker Plan.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The Republicans' slim majority in the Ohio senate was put to its most severe test today as the $12,000,000 sales tax allocation bill was brought up for a vote.

Gov. John W. Bricker called in the leaders of the house and senate for a conference on the eve of the showdown, but they said only "the general legislative program" was discussed.

One defection from the 19 Republican senators would block enactment of the measure, provided the 17-member Democratic minority held fast its lines in opposition. Frank E. Whittemore, the majority chieftain, said that solid Republican support was expected, however.

If the Democrats fail in their efforts to increase the annual share of sales tax revenue allotted to the cities and counties, an informed source said, they likely will vote for the $12,000,000 figure.

Their plan of strategy is to seek first increases of $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 a year on the ground the local governments are hard-pressed financially and are being deprived of their fair share of the sales tax.

Failing to obtain a definite increase, they expected to ask that all sales tax income in excess of $51,500,000 a year (the governor's estimate of the yield) be divided equally between the local governments and schools.

The house of representatives, which rested yesterday because it was St. Patrick's day, had a heavy calendar of 11 bills, including a proposal to transfer from the state executive committee to the state central committee the authority for settling disputes in county political committees.

The senate last night adopted and sent to the house for concurrence a resolution asking the federal government to assume control of the Miami conservancy district and pay its debts totaling $19,000,000.

The senate also passed a bill exempting newspaper trucks from state utilities commission regulations.

BOARD PUTS OK ON INSURANCE

School Officials Authorize Renewal of Policies on 13 Buildings, Equipment.

Satisfied with insurance rates and Mansfield school valuations set up by a committee of Mansfield insurance men, the board of education last night authorized renewal of a number of policies on school property.

The board will have coverage again this year on properties valued at $2,191,200, including 13 buildings and their equipment. Insurance on the schools was issued by 35 agencies in the city.

Premiums on the policies renewed last night will cost the board approximately $3,500 a year, while total premiums, including unexpired insurance, are about $15,000 annually.

Valuations on which the policies are issued include $1,958,800 for buildings, $165,000 for equipment, and $66,800 for basements and foundation walls. The most valuable property is Senior high school, valued at $628,600.

The new John Simpson junior high building and annex are valued at $418,700 and the Johnny Appleseed building and equipment at $369,600.

SENIOR CLASS READY TO RAISE CURTAIN ON PLAY TOMORROW

(Picture on Page 14)

Finishing touches were being put on the senior class play today to be presented by Mansfield Senior high school pupils Wednesday and Thursday at 8:15 p. m. "Mystery at Greenfingers," a J. B. Priestley opus, is to be presented.

The play will be presented for the student body Wednesday and for the public Thursday, according to E. L. Heasley, dramatics instructor.

The plot of the drama is laid in a hotel, where a murder takes place during a violent snowstorm.

Emphasis of the play is placed on characters and protrayal rather than on plot and outcome.

Members of the cast are Eugene Gump, Lillian Art, Paul Tropf, Thelma Vauter, Mildred Miller, Audrey Stuckey, Ethel Mae Bogan, William Lake, Ruth Sawyer, and Richard Sattler.

Production staff for the play includes David Gibson and Gretchen Edwards, business managers; Haldyne Spriggins, prompter; Virginia Moore, Robert Galster, and Patricia Bancroft, property committee.

Music for the presentation will be by the Senior high school orchestra under the direction of S. K. Jorgenson.

GETS SHIPMENT

Red Cross Gets 1,000 Pounds of Yarn For Knitting.

More than 1,000 pounds of wool yarn has been received at the Richland county chapter headquarters of the American Red Cross, according to Mrs. Gertrude English, executive secretary. This recent shipment is for the new quota of knitted goods which must be completed by May 31.

Volunteer knitters may call at the chapter office, 11 West Fourth street, at any time for yarn for sweaters, shawls, scarfs or suits. The new quota also includes the making of 200 children's knit suits, a new feature of the knitting project.

Gray and green yarn has been received which varies the color scheme from the previous quotas.

PLAN PARLEY

Girl Scout Leaders From 40 Towns To Meet Here.

Invitations to the participating councils have just been issued according to Miss Eleanor Bond, executive secretary of the local Girl Scouts.

Miss Frances Morse of New York, national camp advisor, and Miss Esther Oaks of the national field staff with regional offices in Cleveland will be the speakers.

Mansfield Council members will be hostesses. All troop leaders and committee members interested in troop camping are urged to attend.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Movie comedians took a fall—and not a comic one to them—when Jack Oakie failed to cop an Oscar for his work in "The Great Dictator."

For some reason the academy never has taken the screen's funny men seriously, which may be one justification for the old gag that all the comics want to play Hamlet. Comedy in a characterization is no bar to Oscars (Walter Brennan, three-time winner, always injects humor into his performance) but comedy for its own sake gets the go-by.

ROBBIN COONS

Chaplin, true, won a special award the first academy year—"for versatility and genius in writing, acting and producing 'The Circus.'" Nominated for performance this year, the actor traditionally regarded as the screen's great artist was an also-ran to James Stewart.

The academy seems to have no prejudice against comedies per se—only against those labeled comedians. Stewart's role in "The Philadelphia Story," a comedy, was decidedly on the funny side. Gable in "It Happened One Night," Laughton in "Henry the VIII," Gary Cooper in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," all were honored for work in films either wholly or partly comic—but not as comedians.

The answer could be a separate award hereafter: for the best performance by a comedian.

Regardless of the balloting, the nominations of Chaplin and Oakie served to remind the industry that the funny men are too often taken for granted.

Most of Oakie's fellow-nominees, including the winners, have had the same experience. Ginger Rogers was "finished" before she started: Hepburn was "washed" white; Bette Davis was packed for Broadway when she got her second chance; Hollywood let Laurence Olivier go back to England before reclaiming him. Brennan had years of obscurity in bits before clicking, and Jane Darwell, once brightly featured, was doing bits again before "The Grapes of Wrath" brought her back.

Oakie is right—it doesn't make sense and it never will. The fortunes of show business never have made sense.

ASK $20,000

2 Damage Suits Filed Against Trucking Firm Here.

The Cleveland, Columbus, and Cincinnati Highway, Inc., a trucking firm, had been named defendant, today in two damage suits totaling $20,000 which were filed in Richland county common pleas court.

An action filed in behalf of Albert Foreman, 16, of Middletown, seeks $15,000 for injuries the youth allegedly received Aug. 2, 1939, in an accident on route 42 approximately six miles northeast of Mansfield. The suit was filed by the boy's mother, Mrs. Fern L. Foreman.

In another suit against the firm, the youth's father, Fred O. Foreman, asks $5,000 to cover expenses incurred as a result of the youth's injuries and for the loss of his services. Atty. C. W. Elliott represents the plaintiffs.

Young Foreman, the petition states, was a passenger in a truck which figured in a collision with one of the defendant's trucks.

DIES AT HOME OF SON TODAY

J. H. Toomey, 78, Had Always Lived In Ashland½

ASHLAND—A life-long resident of Ashland, James Harry Toomey, 78, died today at the home of his son, Milo Toomey, 912 Union street, following a lingering illness.

Mr. Toomey is survived by his son, Milo; one daughter, Mrs. Frank Downs, of Ashland; one granddaughter, Mrs. Betty Thomas, of Ashland; and one sister, Mrs. Emmer Straugh, of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at the Heyl funeral home Thursday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. A. A. Hunter, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in Nankin cemetery.

Marriage Clause In Contracts For Teachers Revoked

Women teachers in Mansfield schools won't have to worry about losing their jobs now if they get married before school is out.

The board of education last night revoked a 13-year-old ruling against keeping married women on the job and voted to permit girls who marry before the end of the term to keep their jobs until the semester ends.

The new plan, however, makes no change in the ruling against employing married teachers at the beginning of the term. It only permits the married teacher to complete the semester during which she was married.

Supt. of Schools W. L. Miller said the plan would eliminate the necessity of hiring a substitute teacher in the middle of the term, interrupting the pupils' routine. He said teachers are more difficult to find now on short notice since the defense program is taking a number of men and teacher requirements are harder to meet.

The board last night granted Miss Ruth Dukes, teacher in the Bowman school, a leave of absence for an indefinite period because of illness. Mrs. Muriel Harman, an experienced primary teacher, will replace her, Supt. Miller said.

Athletics Win Second Half Title In City League

Sport Podge by REX HESS

FLASH: It's a boy at the Coach Paul Snyders. Born this morning, the youngster weighed seven and three-quarter pounds, "just right for a fullback," boasted the happy Mansfield Tyger grid mentor. "We didn't have a name ready for him. That would have been tempting fate too far."

* * *

The little girl with the freckled face was obviously excited as she rubbed her hands and squirmed through the first half of that Mansfield-Fremont bucket game at Sandusky last Friday night.

But nary a word she uttered, so at the half I warned her:

"You'll have to quit making so much noise or we'll have you thrown out."

"Oh, no, don't do that," she objected. "I waited outside for hours for my girl-friend, and I don't want to go out again."

"And where are you and your girl-friend from?"

"Huron."

She had a right to be excited. The little girl came from basketball country, Huron. The name brought back memories of one of the greatest basketball teams in Ohio high school history, champions of the entire state years and years ago.

There were Bill Slyker, and Bill Lange, and Ray Detrick, and who was that fellow who captained Michigan the same year that Slyker led Ohio State, and Detrick captained the Wittenbergs?

"We lost this year in the semi-finals of our county tournament," the girl with the light brown freckles continued.

How are the mighty fallen!

The old, old days were recalled for me again the next day when I bumped into Art Glattke, O. S. R. superintendent. The word "bumped" is used figuratively, but I had seen him use it literally 20 years before.

Glattke and Abe Kipperman, stars of a great Toledo Woodward Tech basketball team, had gone to Wittenberg and were playing one afternoon with the frosh against the Lutherans' most famous team, that included Dutch Trautwein, Bill Lange, Wib Etter, Ray Detrick, Runt McKinney, and Babe Hall.

Coach Ernie Godfrey who was still playing a bit of bucketball with the Dayton Gems, decided he'd like a workout, so he entered the fracas in a varsity uniform.

Down the floor charged big Glattke, full tilt into the stocky Godfrey, and "The King" sailed through the air, high and far away. When Ernie bounced off the floor, he came up sputtering.

"Get off this floor and don't come back until next year. It's a good thing you didn't hit one of the varsity. You'd have killed him."

A group of the gals will get together in an alley fight come next Sunday, but it will be at the Meder alleys and the battling shouldn't be too terrific.

But there'll be plenty of [illegible] when the Royal Crown Colts and the Orange Street Cafes meet. Said the Orange Streets at the Royal Crowns:

"You're been getting all the publicity but we've been winning matches."

Don't tell me the Lopes swear,
Or scratch, or bite, or pull out hair.
A burst of bark is all they play bob,
With Donna Schuster's slick boy-bob.

Tribe Finally Goes Big League

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Sports heroes by their first Big League uniform once of the training season are Cleveland Indians' Jeffcoat, on from Fort Myers today for a game with the Rochester Red Wings.

Reaching bottom in a defeat by the Jowa Pirates, Jeffcoat did an about-face and looked like champion material against the New York Giants in the first of 15 games with the National Leaguers.

Cal Dorsett, Harry Eisenstat and Mel Harder gave the Indians their best pitching of the spring, limiting the Giants to 10 scattering hits. The trio did not issue a single base on balls.

OHIO BOBCATS PIN HOPES ON FRANKIE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Although Duquesne rated the favorite's position a few hours before the opening of the 4th annual Madison Square Garden invitational tourney, a fleet Ohio university team today caused a shift in sentiment after going through a brisk drill on the big Garden court.

The Ohio team, paced by a little fellow named Frankie Baumholtz, is rated by "experts" as an even bet to whip the big Duquesne team tonight. Baumholtz averaged nearly 18 points per game this season.

Chuckovits Steals Show

Chuck Gets 21 Points In Pro Tourney Tilt.

CHICAGO — (INS) — The world's professional basketball tournament scene buzzed today about one man, Charlie "Chuck" Chuckovitz, amazing forward of the Toledo, O., pro team.

Chuckovitz, former University of Toledo scoring machine, gave a dazzling performance of unorthodox shooting last night when he sparked the Toledo quintet to a surprise 38-31 victory over the powerful Chicago Bruins to send his team into the semi-finals of the big pro classic.

The "Chucker" hit the hoop for ten field goals and two fouls. He scored 21 points in the Toledo five's first tourney win Sunday.

The pairings for the semi-finals pit Oshkosh against Toledo, and the New York Renaissance quintet against the Detroit Eagles.

A crowd of 10,000 saw Oshkosh, champion of the National league, defeat the Philadelphia Hebrews, American loop champions, 43-33, and the Rens swamp Kenosha, Wis., 45-15.

The defending champions, the Globe Trotters, were eliminated Sunday night in the first round.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(INS)—The Cleveland Indians' lone holdout campaign was ended today, following Roy Weatherly's acceptance of a contract.

Peace Reigns At Meeting Of Baseball League Heads

ST PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—If everybody concerned is telling the absolute truth then the meeting of major and minor league baseball executives here tomorrow threatens to be dull going. There isn't a fight in sight, they all declare.

"In fact," added William G. Bramham, head of the minor leaguers, "I wouldn't be surprised if it turns out to be the most harmonious meeting in history. We minor leaguers certainly have no quarrel with the big leaguers."

"That's right," asserted President Ford Frick of the National league. "I know we don't want to fight anybody. I get enough of that during the regular season when some of my best friends quit speaking to me temporarily."

The announced purpose of tomorrow's all-day gathering is to go thoroughly into the major-minor league agreement, which terminates next year and see what can be done about improving it. There can be no definite action now, as any suggestions made by this meeting will have to be voted upon by all leagues, big and little, before their adoption.

Besides Bramham and Frick, those here for the conclave included, George Trautman, president of the American Association; Trammell Scott of the Southern Association, President Will Harridge of the American League, Branch Rickey, St. Louis Cardinals; Ed Barrow, New York Yankees; Clark Griffith, Washington Senators; Warren Giles, Cincinnati Reds; Leo Bondy, New York Giants, and Joseph Hostetter, representing the Cleveland Indians.

Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis does not sit in on this one, as he will be under lively discussion, himself, in the course of the day.

Everybody still is a little jumpy over his recent pronouncement that purchased players could not be farmed out unless waivers were obtained. Landis changed his mind a couple of weeks ago, to the tremendous relief of all concerned, but they still feel that he shouldn't do things like that to their nerves.

JOHNS PARK TEAM TAKES CARD HONORS

Johns Park shufflers stole the show in the park card tournament with top honors in both bridge and pinochle, and climbed to within half a point of the leading Liberty and North Lake teams who have 18½ points each.

Prospect is fourth with 14 and South Maple has 11.

F. M. Eichler of Johns Park turned in high bridge score, and his teammate, J. A. Fisher, had high pinochle.

Four 700 Marks Turned In At A. B. C. Meet.

ST. PAUL — (INS) — Detroit and Milwaukee keglers kept their cities in the spotlight today as the 41st American Bowling Congress went into the sixth day of its 55-day stand in the St. Paul municipal auditorium.

With high scores being counted at an exceptional pace so early in the congress, Milwaukee bowlers held the lead in three of the four brackets—doubles, singles and all-events—while the Grubach team of Detroit led in the five-man standings, and a Detroit pair was in the runner-up spot in the doubles.

Four 700 series have been rolled in the opening days, indicating last year's record of 18 700-or-better scores probably will be surpassed this year.

The four to hit the coveted "700" were Hilla Kallas of Milwaukee, singles leader with his 727 count; George Tishock, Milwaukee, second in the singles with 706; James Berado, Chicago, third with 701; and Edward Bock, Hammond, Ind., fourth with an even 700. Fifth in the singles was Wilham Taylor, Chicago, with 689.

In the five-man standings, the Grubach squad led with a 2,829 pin count, followed by the Schlitz team of Milwaukee with 2,826. Kallas and another Milwaukeean, Frank Caravella, led the doubles with 1,289, and in second place was the Detroit duo of James Lynch and Howard Vautherot, with 1,288.

Tourney Boasts Scorers

Point-A-Minute Teams Crowd Entry Lists.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Point-a-minute teams are a dime a dozen in this week-end's scrap for the state high school basketball championship, 31 of the 32 qualifiers being in the select scoring circle. Only Toledo Libbey, winner of 16 of 22 games, is under the 32-per-game figure.

Libbey, despite its unimpressive record, must be conceded a chance, however, for the Toledo club has been winning the close ones. Ten of Libbey's 16 wins have been by three points or less, and the northerners scored only 23 points more than their 22 foes for the season.

Libbey scored 644 points in the 22 games for an average of 29.1, while the opposition counted 621 for a 28.2 mark. Xenia Central, opponent of Libbey in the opening round, just got over the point-a-minute hump with a 32.9 average, but won 16 of 19 games.

Martins Ferry's powerhouse, with a 49.9 average, is the best offensive team in the class A section of the scholastic classic, while Glenford is tops in class B with 55.3. On the defensive side the class A laurels go to Springfield Township's undefeated club, which allowed only 21.8 per contest. Middletown's unsullied squad taking second with 23.4.

Spring Valley held its enemies to a 21-point average to lead the class B defensive bulwarks, a half point per game better than Hanover.

No matter what happens in the tournament, Greene county can boast that its teams are "pretty good." For the first time in history that county put three of its teams in the big championship finals—Xenia Central in class A, and Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home and Spring Valley in class B.

While Greene county was scoring its "grand slam," Akron's teams were out of the big tourney for the first time in 17 years, all the Rubber City schools bowing out in the qualifying rounds which saw 240 class A and 895 class B squads fall by the wayside.

* * *

With both 1940 champions, New Philadelphia in class A and New Carlisle in class B, among the casualties, the 1941 title chase was regarded as wide open. Four former champs are in the field including the famed Waterloo Wonders who copped the class B crown in 1934 and 1935. Ex-kings seeking the class A laurels again are Zanesville, 1925 champ; Portsmouth, the 1931 winner, and Newark, the ruler in 1936 and 1938.

Breaks Own 10-Year Record

STELLA TODAY

IN 1930

In 1930 Stella Walsh, Cleveland girl runner, set a new world indoor mark for the 220-yard dash. Today, the same girl, 10 years older, cracks that mark in an indoor meet in Cleveland. Miss Walsh, pictured as she appeared in 1930 and as she appears today, ran the 220 in 25.8 seconds to break her former mark of 26 seconds flat. The feat was amazing, considering the time element in between.

Free Style Swim Queen Stays Home To Milk Cows

DETROIT, Mich.—Because city-bred Halina Tomska Tullis has shifted her interests from mermaid to milkmaid, there will be a new national aquatic queen in the free style sprints this year.

The pretty Detroit girl who holds the national A. A. U. championship at 100 yards is too occupied with agricultural affairs these days to give consideration to defense of her title at Buffalo March 19 to 22.

A year ago the busy mermaid was married to Fred Tullis, owner of a 350-acre dairy farm near Monroe, Mich., and instead of shuffling off to Buffalo the newlyweds enrolled in a scientific farming course at Michigan State college. It was there that Halina's city-to-farm movement had its origin.

Mrs. Tullis, who spent her first 21 years in industrial Detroit, admits that once she "scarcely knew that potatoes grow underground" but now she says the farm is such a "gorgeous place that I wouldn't go back to the city to live for anything."

"I attend all the farm meetings," she ventures quite proudly. "Social life can wait if there is a Holstein meeting anywhere in the community."

Mrs. Tullis, who also has held variously the national A. A. U. championships at 220 and 440 yards, has participated in competitive swimming for five years. Her brother, Waldemar, holds several national collegiate and western conference records established while at the University of Michigan.

On her 21st birthday last March, Halina won the 100-yard title at Miami Beach, Fla. She now has decreed that, so long as there's farming to be done, the achievement will mark the climax for her aquatic career.

Halina met Tullis in 1938 during a meet in which she unofficially cracked the 100-yard world record at Toledo, O. Among the first to congratulate her was Tullis.

"It was love at first sight," she said.

Fisher Paces Shelby

Scores First 22 Points Tallied By Tube.

MANSFIELD Athletic Supply won the second-half championship of the City A cage league last night with a 38-28 victory over Ohio Seamless Tube, but the story of their title game at the high school gym is the story of Bob Fisher, Shelby forward.

Until the last five minutes of the ball game, Fisher scored every point chalked up by Seamless Tube, 22 points in all. But for the sharp-shooting ace, Shelby would have been blanked, which would have been another story.

Athletics gained an 8-4 lead on Fisher in the first quarter, and increased it to 16-10 at the half and 26-18 at the third quarter. And they outpointed Shelby 12-10 in the closing canto.

Fisher hooped seven buckets and eight free tosses in his scoring spree, while Lewis and Rose shared honors for the Athletics with 10 points each.

Next Tuesday night the Athletics meet the first-half champion Blue Goose Sohioans for the season's title.

In the second game last night Blue Goose was edged 34-37 by Ralph's Snappy Service club of Marion, staging a strong comeback after being held to two points in the opening period.

The tall team started by the Sohioans proved too slow for the Snappies but when Willard and Ken Lockhart entered the tilt in the second period Blue Goose took over.

Marion led 12-2 at the quarter, 20-14 at the half, and 28-26 at the third quarter, then outscored the Sohioans 9-8 in the final period.

* * *

Willard Lockhart led the Mansfielders with 14 points, but R. Green of Marion took top honors with 15.

BOARD PUZZLES OVER SITE FOR NEW DOG POUND

First It Was High Bids That Troubled Commissioners, Now It's Building Place.

Richland county commissioners had found today that building a $1,500 dog pound can involve more difficulties than they thought when they planned the job last fall.

Not the least of their troubles is finding a place to put the proposed refuge for homeless dogs.

Commissioners asked for bids last fall on the project which they figured would be completed in a few weeks. All of the bids were above the estimated cost so they were rejected.

Plans called for building the new pound at the county fairground near the site of the present refuge, but the county agricultural society refused to grant a lease for longer than four years.

Commissioners had hoped to get federal NYA funds for the project. They learned, however, that NYA money is not available except for public buildings on public property, or at least on a site for which a long-time lease can be obtained.

Now the commissioners are looking for a permanent site, and they are wondering if it might not be cheaper to build the pound with county money and put it where they choose.

"We have several sites in mind, but nothing definite has delevoped yet," C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the commissioners, said.

No request has been made for news bids on the project, and it is not likely bids will be asked until a site has been obtained and the weather gets warmer, Mitchell added.

THEATERS

Finds New Life.

Based on a New York stage play by Martin Berkeley, "The Penalty," opening Wednesday at the Ohio, tells the story of the son of a gangster who is regenerated by New England farm life. Arrested while aiding his father in an escape from G-men, the boy is sent to a farm where simple people help him forget the savage code of the underworld. Edward Arnold plays the gangster overlord, Lionel Barrymore an old farmer whom the boy learns to love. Marsha Hunt and Emma Dunn are also in the cast.

Stage Revue.

"Midnight In Miami," a stage production featuring 35 people, will headline the bill at the Madison Wednesday and Thursday. Feminine pulchritude embellishes the revue and a variety of novel acts that have met favor on both American and European stages. Kohn and Depinto, "Swingers of the Hot and Sweet," featured at Miami's Copley-Plaza the past two winters, are among the outstanding acts as well as Marvin Boone and Helen Taft, young tap dancers, and Newman Brothers, comedians. Miami bathing beauties and the Rosazina Troupe of European tight-wire performers will also hold the spotlight. "Murder Among Friends," with Marjorie Weaver and John Hubbard, heads the screen bill.

As Mrs. Carter.

As Mrs. Leslie Carter, the internationally famous stage star, Miriam Hopkins reaches a dramatic stature that she has never before achieved in the film "Lady With Red Hair," currently showing at the Ritz theater. The role of David Belasco, to whom Mrs. Carter owed much of her fame, is portrayed in the picture by Claude Rains. Laura Hope Crews, Helen Westley and Victor Jory are in the production. "Cock of the Air," with Chester Morris, is the second feature.

Chills and Thrills.

Chills and thrills are provided in Boris Karloff's picture, "The Ape," now showing at the Park theater, when a pack of bloodhounds is loosed on the scent of the master ape. The ape is Karloff's nocturnal disguise while searching for victims from whom he can take a spinal fluid for an infantile paralysis serum he is perfecting. Vera Vague of radio fame, otherwise Barbara Allen, is teamed with Gene Autry and Jimmy Durante in "Melody Ranch," the second feature, having a more lightsome vein.

Spectacle.

Enriched with the spectacular settings of Paris of 1482, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," starring Charles Laughton in the memorable title role, may now be seen at the Majestic theater. Massive sets were used for the production, filmization of Victor Hugo's novel having as its plot the loyalty and sacrifice of a hunchback bell-ringer. The gripping climax, wherein a mob storms the great cathedral to rescue a gypsy girl, offers some of the most impressive moments in screen annals. Maureen O'Hara, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, and Walter Hampden are in the cast. "The Marines Fly High," with Chester Morris, Richard Dix, and Lucille Ball is the second feature.

CHEMISTRY LEAD HELD BY U. S.

NEW YORK — (UP) — World leadership in the output of chemical research reports passed to the United States in 1930 and has not changed since, according to Dr. E. J. Crane, Columbus, O.

"In 1913 the German output of chemical papers was 34.4 per cent of the world's total, while that of the United States was 20.7 per cent," writes Dr. Crane in the American Chemical Society publication, Chemical Abstracts.

"In 1939 the output of papers in the United States had reached 27.7 per cent and Germany's had dropped to 18.7."

GETS 30 DAYS

Mansfielder Sentenced For Violation of Probation.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch revoked parole on Archer Currens of 403 Buffalo street today in Municipal court and sent him to Richland county jail for 30 days.

Currens, who was given a two-year probation for an assault and battery charge in November, was arrested on West Fifth street yesterday by Mansfield police who had been seeking him for more than six hours.

Police were called to the home to arrest Currens but found that he had already left. His wife told them that Currens had come home intoxicated, broke a window in the front door and strew dishes about the kitchen.

M. D. Ward, jr., city solicitor, informed police that no warrant would be needed for the arrest since Currens had violated his parole.

QUITS 'RACKET'

COLUMBIA, S. C.—(U.P.)—A third grader came home from school with the assertion that he was "through with that racket."

"What racket?" his mother asked.

"Going to school. It's a racket because they've been doing it for a long time and haven't finished it up yet."

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BUC PAYMENTS DROP AS JOBS SHOW INCREASE

22 Per Cent Fewer Checks In District For February, Manager Reports.

Employment by private industry in the Mansfield unemployment compensation district, embracing Richland and Morrow counties, has cut payments 22 per cent under those for January, according to the report of C. W. Handley, district office manager, for the month of February.

A total of $16,029 was paid out during the month in 1,637 checks, $4,520 less than the January amount. So far this year, the unemployment compensation office has paid $36,578.

The average check given out for full time compensation amounted to $10.30 while the average for a partial employment check was $5.73.

Handley announced that although only 190 persons were placed by the office in February, a decrease of 16 per cent, the active file was reduced to 1,904. He indicated this meant that many of those formerly on the active list had been able to obtain their own employment because of the pick up in industry.

The drop in those on the active file represented a decrease of 214 within the past month. Only 232 new applications were received, the report shows.

The Fashion Lane Clothiers shop of 16 West Third street, will participate in a national campaign to supply British civilians with steel helmets and needy Americans with headgear, Martin Lewis, manager, announced today.

The hats will be contributed by Adam Hat stores throughout the country who are co-operating with the American Committee for the Defense of British Homes and the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army will distribute the hats. None will be given out in the stores. The American committee is also collecting small arms, binoculars and stop watches for the use of British civilians in resisting invasion.

REFUSES $10,000 FOR MODEL TRAIN

PHILADELPHIA — (U.P.) — Edward W. Scheer, president of the Reading company, in revealing that actress Miriam Hopkins had offered $10,000 for the miniature model of Engine 111, has promised that the model never will be sold.

The 24-foot-model, built by apprentices at the company's Reading, Pa., shops, will be placed on permanent exhibition at Reading Terminal here, according to Scheer.

The miniature is a one-eighth working size model of the Reading's crack engine which pulls a passenger express between New York and Philadelphia.

The $500,000 neo-classic Japanese embassy in Washington is the newest of the capital city's foreign-owned structures.

STOCKS DROP BUT SHOW NO WEAK POINTS

Take Lower Trail as Bonds and Commodities Stay on Steady Trend.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Leading stocks shifted to a lower trail in today's market without developing any special weakness.

Inclined to slip were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Western Union, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Can, General Electric, Johns-Manville and Texas Corp.

Bonds and commodities were fairly steady.

Market students saw further evidence of increasing industrial momentum in the statement of federal reserve member banks in 101 cities for the week ended March 12 disclosing a jump of $87,000,000 in business loans.

Some cheer was found in the summary of the national industrial conference board showing the nation's retail sales in 1940 were around $45,500,000,000 compared with $42,000,000,000 in 1919.

COUNTED OUT

Shelby Councilman Declines To Run For Office.

SHELBY — First candidate to declare himself out of the political race this fall for any municipal office was Kenneth Rothlisberger, first ward councilman.

Rothlisberger, who has served several terms on the council, said he did not intend to run for re-election or for any other city office.

He had been mentioned as a likely candidate to oppose Mayor W. R. Morris, who has come out for re-election to a second term.

It is expected that Mayor Morris will be unopposed this year as Morris has said he will not run for a third term. This would leave the office wide open in two more years.

PURCHASE CRUISER

SHELBY—Mayor W. R. Morris was expected to confer with city council members today to get specifications ready for advertising for the purchase of a police cruiser and city truck next month.

after locking Guard Fred Williams in a cold storage chamber.

Brandishing butcher knives they had stolen from the kitchen, the trio accosted Williams while he was making his rounds, took his keys and escaped on foot.

Apparently hiding out near Mansfield for two days, they appeared at the farm home of M. L. Switzer, on route 39 at the intersection of route 603 Saturday evening.

Posing as truck drivers whose vehicle had broken down, they ate their suppers at the Switzer home and an hour later held up Schnittke as he slowed his car down to cross a temporary bridge near Melco.

Threatening Schnittke with the same butcher knives they brandished at Williams, they forced him to drive 10 miles to a country road south of Loudonville where he was robbed, dumped out, and the car stolen.

Schnittke later identified photographs of the fugitive trio as the men who abducted him.

Long was serving concurrent sentences for robbery, burglary and larceny and for receiving and concealing stolen property. Layton and Deckerhoff were serving terms for assault to rob.

Long had been granted a parole effective July 1, and Layton and Deckerhoff were to have been released Oct. 1.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD COAL GOOD?

Every ounce of CABIN BLOCK COAL is clean and pure and so hard that the slack and dust nuisance is eliminated. There is never a clinker . . . consuming its own gasses and leaving a small amount of ash (less than three per cent).

CABIN BLOCK makes a good fire in 30 minutes; it will hold fire for 70 to 100 hours; you can leave home Friday morning, return Monday and find fire still in the furnace.

CABIN BLOCK is a fuel so marvelously perfect that it is exclusive; nowhere else is there a coal better than CABIN BLOCK.

NAZI WARSHIPS IN U. S. WATERS, SAYS CHURCHILL

Hurls Charge as Washington Hears Report U-Boat's on Way to East Coast.

losses until the battle of the Atlantic is won. The enemy is bringing into play his maximum forces under, on and over the sea."

But England's Royal Air Force was busy smashing at the Germans, too. A London communique said RAF night raiders pounded anew at Bremen and the German naval base at Wilhelmshaven. The Germans acknowledged several persons were killed and injured in the attacks.

Despite the German denial that a U-boat had been dispatched to operate off the Atlantic coast, Washington reflected no little concern. One report said the information came from an intercepted message sent to at least one German submarine, probably a 1,500-ton underseas raider with a range of about 10,000 miles without refueling.

The source and the details of the government's information were an official secret. Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) said the tip came from Britain's ambassador, Lord Halifax.

Informed sources suggested at Washington that dispatch of such an undersea raider to western Atlantic waters, where World war U-boats sank 65 vessels, would be in line with Adolf Hitler's repeated declarations that American supplies for Britain would be sunk.

A submarine operating in western Atlantic shipping lanes would be inside the Pan-American neutrality zone patrolled daily by air and surface craft of the U. S. Atlantic fleet.

German air activity over England last night was described in London as "small scale," and London was without an air alarm for the first time in 10 nights.

Describing the British capture of Berbera, seacoast capital of British Somaliland which was abandoned last August under Italian pressure, the London ministry of information said troopships loaded with men and armored cars crept up to the coast Saturday midnight and by 9:20 a. m. Sunday a landing force of Indian, Somali and Arab troops had taken the city.

The exploit of four men, who rowed ashore in a tiny skiff and flashed signals from the beach, was credited with having made the feat possible.

Mussolini's high command acknowledged that the port was captured "after a violent naval bombardment."

On the Albanian war front, the Greeks reported comparative quiet, with the Italians showing no disposition to renew last week's furious offensive in which the Fascists were said to have suffered 50,000 casualties.

King George II of Greece, in a message to his troops, declared that "the whole civilized world follows with astonishment Greek feats of arms" and pledged that "the liberty of Greece will be defended."

This was interpreted in some quarters as renewed assurance that Greece would not submit without a struggle to the expected German invasion.

Turkish newspapers still made no mention of foreign reports that British troops have already landed in Greece, but one newspaper asserted that United States aid to Britain would force Hitler to act swiftly in the Balkans.

"We must now expect Germany to play her trump card, as speed has become a matter of life and death for her," it said.

Wounded Greek soldiers, headed home through Yugoslavia in an exchange of prisoners, declared British bombings of the Albanian port of Valona had wrecked almost every building in the town and left the port in ruins.

They said they saw one attack, while they were waiting in a Valona hospital for transportation, and described it as "the most terrific bombing conceivable."

Observers in Tokyo attached high significance to an announcement that Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, en route to Berlin and Rome, would stop for important conversations in Moscow, both before and after Axis talks.

Some sources expressed the opinion Japan is seeking guarantees from Soviet Russia to safeguard her frontiers before making commitments on any concerted action in her partnership with Germany and Italy.

Pledges Unstinted U. S. Aid to Britain

LONDON —(U.P.)— The arrival of Winant, new U. S. ambassador to Great Britain, and W. Averell Harriman, his special envoy on American aid, stimulated the unexpected flood of the American people today for the free peoples of the world who are fighting Nazism.

Winant, addressing the Pilgrims society in his first speech since his arrival, in an apparent reply to the speech in which Adolf Hitler Sunday promised his people victory this year, promised that peoples the triumph of their cause in 1941.

Harriman, addressing British newspaper correspondents, asserted that the American people would make sacrifices in their own diet if necessary to give Britain the kinds of food she needs.

He mentioned especially dairy products.

Harriman also said that the president would soon establish a board under the lease-lend act to coordinate the requirements of the British and United States armaments programs.

Winant, denouncing Nazism as the worst tyranny the world had ever known, said:

"A new spirit is abroad. Free peoples are again cooperating to win a free world and no tyranny can frustrate their hopes. Those who now suffer and die in the effort do so for the common good of the free peoples of the earth who shall follow after them and who with the help of God shall build in these sacrifices a citadel of freedom so strong that none may ever again seek its destruction."

MASS FOR NEW GREEK ATTACK

wounded and prisoners in last week's offensive. The prisoners numbered 4,000.

Reporting on week-end activity, the Greek spokesman said that Saturday night the Italians attempted a moonlight attack and were repulsed with heavy losses, and that Sunday the Italians showed no disposition to fight, while Greek artillery heavily shelled Italian positions. British and Greek planes were reported active all along the front.

Last night's war ministry communique said there had been "patrol and artillery action."

London Learns of Troop Move to Greece

LONDON —(U.P.)— The British public received its first news today that heavily guarded British convoys are passing across the eastern Mediterranean and Aegean seas between Egypt and Greece.

British correspondents with the Empire forces in the Near East had been permitted to report in today's newspapers that a dramatic military movement was in progress.

For reasons of military secrecy the correspondents were able only to hint in vague terms of what was obviously a grand scale movement of troops and war materials.

The correspondents disclosed that stores, munitions, supplies and "transport"—(troops) were on the move and that as they passed just east of the Greek island of Crete, navy planes cooperating with convoys were lashing savagely at the Italian Dodecanese islands to prevent Italian planes from attacking.

Yugoslavia Tightens Its Defense Measures

BELGRADE —(INS)— Yugoslavia took added defensive precautions today while Yugoslavian-German negotiations dragged on inconclusively and British forces continued to mass in Greece.

(The Berlin correspondent of the Hungarian newspaper Pester Lloyd reported that a conflict between Germany and Greece can be expected in the near future as a result of the arrival of British forces in Greece.)

While attempting to steer a neutral course, the Yugoslavian government speeded up its military precautions. Authoritative quarters indicated more than 1,000,000 Yugoslavian soldiers will participate in the spring military maneuvers.

There was still no definite official information regarding the Yugoslavian negotiations with Germany. Some diplomatic quarters said they understood Belgrade and Berlin already have reached an agreement on economic issues and said Yugoslavia is now ready to sign a non-aggression pact with the Reich.

(A Reuters (British) dispatch from Belgrade said difficulties in the German-Yugoslav negotiations were continuing and that Yugoslavia was insisting the Greek port of Salonika must be considered by the Germans as equivalent to Yugoslav territory — and therefore inviolate.)

(Diplomatic circles in Vichy, which have proved extremely accurate in forecasting trends in the European war, all confirmed that Yugoslavia's attitude is hardening against the Reich.)

war department would take a jurisdictional strike which has stalled work on a $5,900,000 army air corps expansion program at Wright Field, O.

In a broader move affecting the entire defense production program, President Roosevelt was expected to name an 11-member federal mediation board to deal with labor disputes.

A war department spokesman declined to reveal the nature of the steps to be taken at Wright Field, where work has been stopped since early this month.

At the construction scene, however, Isaac Penner, New York electrical contractor, declared last night he had rejected a request from an unnamed army officer to discharge a crew of CIO workmen.

AFL building trades members walked out when the CIO men went to work. Penner said he had no choice but to stick with the CIO, with whom he had a contract.

Secretary of Labor Perkins and Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of production management, told reporters Mr. Roosevelt would name the new mediation tribunal today or tomorrow.

Production was slowed down by a labor dispute yesterday at the huge Bethlehem Steel corporation plant at Johnstown, Pa., a CIO steel workers organizer claimed 5,000 of 15,000 employes stayed away from work; the management indicated that only "several hundred" workers were out.

The union protested installation of ballot boxes inside the mill by the Employers Representation plan for nomination of candidates for 47 representative posts, declaring the latter organization had been held illegal by the labor board.

HEARING SET

Ashland Priest in Court on Whipping Charge Tomorrow.

ASHLAND — Rev. William E. Rooney, pastor of St. Edward's Catholic church, charged with whipping a 16-year-old girl in the nude, will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace J. H. Armstrong tomorrow at 2 p. m.

On the following day, an Ashland county grand jury will consider the evidence against the priest, Prosecutor A. Ross Sivrling said.

Siverling said today that no new developments had been reported since Thursday when Virginia Barrett, the girl who accuses Rev. Rooney of whipping her on March 7 at 4:30 a. m. while she was unclothed, was ordered held as a material witness.

Father Rooney termed the girl's charges as "unbelievable" following his arrest. She claimed that he beat her with a leather strap because he complained of her companions.

recommendations for the expenditure be approved with a single change and a rephrasing of another section.

The change would provide that any defense article procured with the $7,000,000,000 should be retained by a government department at the discretion of the president, instead of being disposed of directly to a foreign government.

The committee said on this point:

"Obviously if our own need at any point in the program should precipitiously become more important than the furnishing of aid to a country whose defense the president had deemed vital to the defense of the United States, the right should exist to retain and use for our own immediate necessities such defense articles as the president should consider would best serve our own interests."

The committee noted that the amount carried in the bill plus authority in the basic law to dispose of a maximum of $1,300,000,000 worth of existing materials, made the total available for British aid $8,300,000,000.

The committee provided that the president may reimburse, from the $7,000,000,000 fund, any department for the value of defense articles it disposes of.

PROPOSE NEW PAY PLAN IN CITY SCHOOLS

Teachers' Committee Seeks Board's Approval of Single-Salary Schedule.

mittee for the proposal is J. H. Perrill, teacher at John Simpson junior high school. He told the board the single-salary plan would mean "very little or no increase over the present schedule for the next two years," but he admitted that the cost would increase at the end of two years.

Benefits of the plan would be largely in favor of the grade school and junior high teachers, with some of the Senior high instructors probably taking salary cuts if they failed to measure up to the maximum in education and experience.

Perrill, as spokesman for the delegation last night, said the Teachers' association approved the single-salary schedule by a vote of about 125 to 65, with most of the dissenting votes cast by Senior high teachers.

Under the plan, the minimum salary would be $1,000, the same as the present minimum for grade teachers. That figure would apply only to teachers with a bachelor's degree and with one year's experience. The minimum for those with four and a half years of training and one year's experience would be $1,050, while teachers with a Master's degree and one year of teaching experience would get a minimum of $1,100.

Annual salary increases ranging from $50 to $75 would be granted teachers for each additional year of experience until the maximum of 16 years is reached.

Athletic coaches could earn a maximum of $2,400 a year, the maximum now.

The plan also calls for three days' sick leave each semester and three days because of a death in the family at no salary reduction. For each day in excess of the six provided for in the proposal, the teacher would take a 60 per cent pay cut.

Under the present set-up, a high school teacher earning the maximum draws $4 a day for each day's absence and loses $6 which is paid to a substitute teacher. Others receive and lose smaller amounts.

Supt. Miller said the single-salary proposal is an outgrowth of a ruling which requires all new teachers to have at least four years of college work. The ruling became effective last September.

Miller said the plan is in operation in a number of other Ohio cities, but he added that the pay schedule in some cases was set up when schools were more prosperous and some of them are being forced to reduce the maximum salaries now.

With Perrill in the teachers' delegation at the board meeting last night were W. B. Huber, teacher at Johnny Appleseed junior high school; Earl Reichert, Newman school teacher; Miss Emily Palmer, Hedges school, and Miss Leotta Hunter, Senior high school.

sylvania railroad near Baden, Pa., in which five persons were killed and 114 injured. The Pennsylvania has declared there was "definite evidence of sabotage" in the Baden wreck.

Erie officials, who had at first reported that the two trains telescoped on the same eastbound track, dispatched a rescue train from Kent to clear away the wreckage.

One of the most seriously injured was Felici Prisrello of Youngstown, who lost his left arm.

A carpenter employed at the arsenal gave this account:

"The commuter train was backing up on the main line into the arsenal grounds when the freight crashed broadside into the fourth coach, demolishing it and derailing four others.

"The wooden coach which was struck was splintered and only the framework remained. This coach apparently was carrying about 85 men. Some of them were cut by flying glass.

"A locomotive from the arsenal station picked up two coaches from the rear of the commuter train to take some of the injured into Ravenna.

"I was waiting for this train to pick me up and take me to my job at the arsenal about 2½ miles from where the accident occurred. The commuter train was to deposit men from Youngstown and pick us (a group of carpenters) up and take us to our work."

Most of the east and south felt the sting of the cold wave today as the arctic chill knifed through from the storm-lashed middlewest.

The death toll in Minnesota and North Dakota, center of the storm area, increased to 66 as additional frozen bodies were recovered from snowdrifts and stalled autos.

The deaths by states: North Dakota 38, Minnesota 28, New York 4, Wisconsin 3, Ohio 4, Michigan 2, and Pennsylvania 1.

Temperatures moderated somewhat in the middlewest but subzero cold persisted in Wisconsin and Minnesota. Early today Bemidji, Minn., was the coldest spot with a reading of 20 below.

Fears for the safety of 20 persons trapped on ice floes in Lake Superior while fishing subsided on reports that all had reached the mainland or islands off Michigan's upper peninsula.

Forty mile winds drifted highways in western and central New York where temperatures ranged from 7 to 14.

Gales swept Maryland and other areas on the seaboard. Wind and sleet storms damaged utility lines in some sections of Maine. Maine's temperatures ranged down to zero. Continued cold was forecast for New Hampshire and Vermont where the mercury ranged from 10 to 20.

Except for Florida and the gulf coast, the entire south had freezing temperatures.

A fire drove 60 children from a grade school near Brazil, Ind., into near zero weather. Some suffered frostbite.

SHELBY COUNCIL TABLES ANNUAL FAIR PROPOSAL

Legislation Permitting Use of Main Street for Four-Day Event Shelved.

SHELBY—On suggestion of Mayor W. R. Morris, city council last night tabled a resolution to permit Shelby Community Street Fair association to use Main street for its annual four-day fair in September.

Mayor Morris said he was in favor of the fair, but believed it would be better if the east and west side squares were kept open to traffic.

Councilmen Charles Dye and Charles Swanger also favored keeping the squares open to traffic during fair week.

A group of members of Shelby Better Business club and Shelby Community Street Fair association, co-sponsors of the fair, ask council for the use of the street for the fair.

The resolution was tabled until April 7th to permit council to study the legislation.

A petition was received by council and placed on file from property owners on Fourth street extension asking that the proposed street improvement be done by contract instead of WPA. Officials of WPA declined to include the improvement under the tentative street program set up for Shelby.

Petitions requesting street improvements and a sanitary sewer were received from property owners on Morning Side drive.

Mayor Morris was authorized by council to advertise for materials needed by the city in the street department, municipal water and electric companies.

PERHAPS YOU'VE SEEN the new Pontiac "Torpedo" described as "the Fine Car with the Low Price" and wondered a little bit about that statement.

You can accept the "fine car" part without any doubt, we believe—especially if you've examined a new Pontiac.

That "low price" part may stop you, however. Can the new Pontiac—one of the smartest-looking, easiest-riding cars on the road today—actually be low-priced? Well, here are the facts:

Pontiac prices begin at $828*. A new 1941 Pontiac "Torpedo" will cost you so little more than the "lowest-priced three" that the difference will amount to only a very few dollars per month. What's more, Pontiac's economy of operation and upkeep permits you to drive for practically the same money that a lesser car requires.

Yes, the new Pontiac, with its Body by Fisher, has earned the title, "the Fine Car with the Low Price." Try a new Pontiac before you put your money in something less desirable.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 1941.

It's always a mystery where a poll canvasser finds people who haven't any opinion.

"All that a man hath will he give for his life," and a nation, too, will empty its pockets to keep going.

It took two tries for Betty Compton to get a divorce from Jimmy Walker—but she probably regards it as worth the effort.

More Taxes From More People

REALIZATION that "everybody pays taxes" is likely to become even more general next year—if favorable consideration is given either of the two proposals which will be up for discussion in congress.

One is to impose a 5 per cent payroll tax on everybody making more than $100 a month and the other is to enact a 2 or 3 per cent national sales tax. It is estimated that either of these would produce around three and a half billion dollars annual revenue.

Reduction of income tax exemptions, effective with this year's reports, has already spread this form of direct taxation to several milion more people, and with mounting defense expenditures it is inescapable that by next year more will be required from large and small taxpayers than ever before.

Now that national expenditures are stated in terms of "billions," instead of "millions," it should still be kept in mind that this is money that must be earned before it can be spent—earned by the work of millions of people, each of whom is required to contribute a part of his or her earnings for the upkeep of government—national, state and local—and for the defense program now entered upon.

This spread of taxation should also result in a spread of determination to demand the greatest possible reduction of non-defense expenditures by government agencies during the present crisis.

Of immediate concern, along this line, is the increased budget which Governor Bricker has submitted to the Ohio legislature—largest in the state's history. Taxpayers interested to the extent of writing to their legislators urging efforts toward tax reduction should address their letters to John L. Catlett, Richland county representative; Senator P. H. Rogers and Senator Joseph Jameson, State House, Columbus, Ohio.

Must Guard Against Sabotage

WHETHER or not it finally develops that sabotage was responsible for the fatal train wreck near Pittsburgh Sunday night, the thought cannot be escaped that this is one of the dangers now being faced in this country, against which every precaution must be taken.

Investigation by Pennsylvania railroad officials disclosed that spikes had been removed from both sides of one rail, with care taken to avoid disturbing the signal system, and it was announced that the wreck was "very definitely caused by sabotage."

While lunacy or criminality might explain such an act it is just as well to recognize that the United States is now definitely supporting one side in the present World war—and is as definitely opposed to the side with which sabotage has been a common instrument of terrorism and destruction.

The customarily accorded freedom of action which has heretofore extended to alien agitators and organizers, as well as to citizens of this country, has resulted in an infiltration of dangerous individuals and groups which must be taken into account in preparations for defense and greater aid-to-Britain.

Under present laws deportation of undesirable and dangerous aliens is difficult—if not impossible. It is being proposed that a law be enacted to simplify this process and NOW would seem to be the proper time for such a change, also for closer surveillance of Nazi and Fascist sympathizers.

Rededication To Patriotism

RALPH INGERSOLL, editor of the New York daily, "PM," in a notable series of editorials on the meaning of the present world crisis to Britain and America, concludes one of them with this statement:

"The fate of the American people hangs on the success of British arms. For not only must British arms hold the forces of Fascism away from us until we are ready, but we must draw upon the present fortitude and courage of the British people for our very faith in life. Even if the British were fighting for things we did not believe in, this would be true. The important thing is the example they set for us, as men of character willing to fight for what seems right to them. With time and this example before us, our national awakening will continue, and we will know again, as the Americans who went before us knew, what our land, and our principles mean to us. And what we are willing to give and to do in the name of Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness."

Most of us, perhaps, have not realized the depth of indifference toward our ideals into which we sank in the last deadly decade or two. If we are really beginning to wake up now, as we seem to be, we shall not grudge the sacrifices we have to make.

This doesn't necessarily mean going to war. It does mean a revival of American patriotism, an understanding of what the old verities mean to us, a realization of what the present war is about.

Learning From the Ant

A STARTLING statement is made by Prof. William T. Heron, psychologist at the University of Minnesota. In a neck-and-neck race for survival man is lagging behind the ant, he says. Up to now the small-brained insects—the flies, social beetles, bees—have been winning the race.

In a way this is a comforting thought. The ants will take care of Hitler in due time if human beings fail to do so.

Still, nobody likes to think that this may be necessary. Neither do people like the idea of being beaten by ants and other insects.

There is something to be said for man. He hasn't been on the job in his own behalf for more than a million years or so. The ants, on the other hand, have continued steadily in their course for 15,000,000 years. Man has made quite remarkable progress because his kind of brain enabled him to adopt himself to new surroundings and conditions. Upset an ant's routine, and he's out of luck.

This suggests that when man gets around to being his own best friend instead of his own worst enemy, he will figure out a way to hold his own against even the small-brained insects.

It may at least be assumed that Nature never intended a full moon to increase the effectiveness of air raids.

SEA SERPENT SEASON OPENS FOR ADOLF

Listen World!

It Can Happen Here!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE little German chambermaid was crying. She tried to hide it with her quick, trained smile. But the soft lips quivered helplessly, tears splashed on the pile of fresh linen. Head down, she tried to hurry past me.

But why? We had been friends for weeks. A lonely youngster, in a strange country, she had told me many small secrets. Surely we could share grief, too. I urged, and saw terror rising in her eyes. Plainly, she longed to talk but dare not. After all, these Americans—one never knew! Then, suddenly, the pain grew too great to be borne alone; the story came tumbling out.

She had just heard. The news had come in the long roundabout way by which forbidden news must come from Germany today. Two months before, her older brother and his bride—both brilliant in their professions—had disappeared, taken suddenly at night by the dreaded Troopers after the complete wreckage of their Berlin apartment.

But were they criminals? Traitors? No! No! They were good Germans . . . loyal . . . but they had dared to break the rule that must not ever be broken. They had dared to listen, secretly, to foreign broadcasts, broadcasts that told about the other side of the war, challenging the facts as Berliners knew them.

Deeply upset, the young couple had brought a few friends to listen too . . . had talked together in bewildered whispers, night after night. Until one night there came a great pounding and crashing and there stood the Troopers. Where were they now? One could only guess. In some concentration camp, herded like beasts. And Frieda had been about to have a baby.

In a concentration camp because they dared to listen to the other side of the story! Yes, it's true. Such is the German law. If you dismiss it as being merely another Nazi atrocity, you're making a horrible mistake. For what has happened in Germany can happen here.

There are those who would limit America's reading, as Berlin limits Germany's listening, who would gag the press as Hitler has gagged the air. They might not seem as obvious or drastic about it. The penalties might not be as harsh. But in the long run, they'd be as tragic. FOR A PEOPLE DENIED THE TRUTH AND THE BASIC RIGHT OF FREE DISCUSSION PERISH AS SURELY AS THOUGHT THEY ROTTED IN CONCENTRATION CAMPS. AND A YANKEE EFFORT TO CURB FREE THOUGHT AND EXPRESSION IS EXACTLY AS DEADLY AS A NAZI ONE.

"But it couldn't be done in America!" you say.

Don't fool yourself! There's no abomination which can't be committed in the U. S. A. just as thoroughly as elsewhere, provided bigotry and tyranny once get the upper hand. All it needs is something we Americans already have plenty of—stupid, good-natured complacency: that exhilarating and asinine belief that "nobody can put nothin' over on us."

The simple truth is that American thought can be hog-tied as completely as Berlin has hog-tied Germany's. And by exactly the same methods. The Germans didn't agree to be hog-tied . . . nor did they expect it . . . nor even recognize it when it happened. They thought as freely as other men—once. But little by little, restrictions were put on that thought — "Emergency orders" . . . "considerations of policy" . . . "temporary sacrifices for the Fatherland." So today Germans listen only to what Hitler, Himmler, Goering and Goebbels permit. Today, in some concentration camp, Germany's free thought huddles in suppression, its tongue torn out.

WE ARE IN FOR A GREAT FIGHT TO PROTECT OUR LIBERTY. BUT LIBERTY WILL BE A MOCKERY AND DEMOCRACY A MYTH UNLESS WE CAN PRESERVE THE RIGHT TO THINK AND LISTEN, READ, TALK AND WRITE AS FREE MEN.

Little Chats On Public Notices

News In Legal Advertising.

BURIED in what may seem to be an obscure corner of the newspaper is a small advertisement. It may be only a few lines. It is a public notice, sometimes known as legal or official advertising. These notices are common to practically all newspapers of general circulation.

Such a notice may be from an individual to say that on and after a given date he will not be responsible for any debts other than those contracted by himself. It may be a warning to all persons holding claims against an estate to present them for settlement. It may be a notice of election, or of the appointment of a guardian, or of a public improvement, or of the impending purchase of supplies or equipment for a public agency or service. There are hundreds of varieties.

In every case these notices are required or permitted by law. As such they are important. The law often fixes the form in which they shall appear, the size of the type to be used and the rate to be charged. This also accounts for the location and appearance of these notices.

To paraphrase an old saying, "there's news in them thar notices"—news of friends, neighbors and acquaintances, news of public affairs, and news that may affect you as an individual or the community as a whole. Newspapers occasionally print news stories calling attention to such advertising when it is of special importance. But every notice is there for a purpose. It deserves to be read like any other news in the paper.

Billion Dollars' Worth of Fun.

Lots of people, pulling a long face, will tell you that they had a pretty thin time last year, and that the slogan with which they face the future is "No Fun in '41!"

Well, they're having a billion dollars' worth of fun every year, or getting themselves gypped, one or the other. For the Census Bureau figures that's about what the United States spends every year in the pursuit of pleasure down organized commercial byways. The movies get more than half of it, but bowling alleys knock off nearly fifty millions a year, race tracks forty, and pool parlors almost as much. Professional baseball, the "national game," trails in sixth place.—Newark Advocate.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Morale Neglected In Draft Army, Little Recreation Being Supplied

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Only a few high-up officials realize it, but in the rush of getting aid to Britain, one of the most essential defense problems is being sadly neglected — the state of mind of the new draft soldiers and of their families back home.

The new draft army is better housed, better fed, and better clothed than during the last war. But as yet there has been no concerted attempt to build the most important essential—morale.

While the draft act was being debated in congress last summer, certain high war department officials pointed to the danger of drafting men before the army was ready to train them. Idle men, or even semi-idle men, quickly go to seed. They have to be moulded, imbued with the spirit of service.

What these officers feared is now actually happening in some camps. There are several reasons.

Lack of Officers.

ONE is the lack of sufficient officer personnel. You can't train an army without officers, and officers can't be trained in a few weeks. Some of the reserve officers who have been called to active duty are excellent, but some are just the opposite.

Nothing chafes the buck private more than to serve under an incompetent officer, especially when many of the drafted men left good jobs which were paying them more than the salaries of the officers from whom they have to take orders.

There is also a scarcity of high-calibre non-commissioned officers; and some of the sergeants transferred from Panama and the regular army have not been too adept at handling raw draftees.

Equally important has been the neglect of the morale or spiritual side of army life. Some camps are better than others, but in many of them the men are given little to do in the evenings. There is hardly any of the music, theatrical performances, lectures and high-type entertainment which featured cantonment life during the last war.

Don't Understand War.

LITTLE effort has been made to supply newspapers and reading material in the camps, and the men seem to have little idea of what is going on in Europe. Certainly the president's ideas on the menace of Hitlerism, and the belief of the majority in congress that the safety of the United States is tied up with England, have not yet percolated thoroughly to the new army.

Moreover, most of the homes from which the boys come have no clear idea of war aims or the reason for the draft. And that probably is the root explanation for the slow building of army morale.

Because of this lack of direction, many recruits have been allowed to look upon military service as a duty which has to be performed and got over with as soon as possible. They count the number of furloughs they can have, which is three times ten days, plus week-ends, and subtract that from the number of days they must serve.

Several of the president's advisers have been urging him to take the lead in charting public opinion and explaining, to men of military age and their families, what the war is all about.

Puzzled Naval Expert.

REAR ADMIRAL Ben Moreell was at the Army and Navy club the other evening. As chief of the bureau of yards and docks, he is an expert on such things as stresses and strains and supports.

Evelyn de La Tour was there, too—a lovely blond dancer, wearing a strapless evening gown. With a glance at the bare shoulders and the strapless gown, the admiral said to Miss de La Tour:

"As an engineer, I would like to know how that gown is supported."

Seven Billions OK'd.

THERE was one lone objector at the White House conference when Roosevelt broke the news of his $7,000,000,000 lend-lease budget to leaders of the senate and house appropriations committees.

He was Senator Alva Adams, Colorado banker, who opposed the aid-democracies measure largely on the same ground by which he judges all legislation—its cost in dollars and cents. Other zealous economy advocates were present, especially Senator Carter Glass and Representative Cliff Woodrum of Virginia. But only Adams raised a dissenting voice.

Roosevelt opened the conference with the statement that army and navy heads had informed him that $7,000,000,000 would be required if real assistance was to be given Britain and the other Axis foes.

"This is a very large sum of money," he said gravely, "and you can provide it in either of two ways. You can approve an outright appropriation of the entire sum in cash now, or you can vote four billions in cash and three billions in contract authorizations for future spending. I leave the matter up to your judgment as to which is the best course."

"I'm in favor of appropriating the whole seven billions in cash at once," spoke up Representative J. Buell Snyder of Pennsylvania, veteran member of the house committee. "It would be poor psychology to do otherwise. Hitler would immediately think we were pulling our punch if we voted only a part of the money needed.

"If we mean business we've got to act. Half-way measures won't do; they'll only cost us more in the end. I say, let's show Hitler and the democracies that we mean what we said in the lend-lease bill by appropriating the full amount now."

Senator Glass, Representative Carl Vinson (chairman of the house naval affairs committee) and others emphatically seconded Snyder's argument. But Adams objected.

"I don't care how the others feel," he said. "I'm against such an appropriation. It's too much money."

The outburst had the effect of a bombshell. Everyone looked at Adams. The room became still. Roosevelt started to speak, changed his mind, sat looking at Adams, and puffed on his cigaret.

Finally Woodrum broke the strained silence. "Then it is agreed," he said, "that it's to be seven billions in cash."

Adams said no more and the conference broke up.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here's a quick check-up on the current activities of the four dramatists who compose the Playwrights Company—that organization which includes Maxwell Anderson, Robert Sherwood, Elmer Rice, and S. N. Behrman and which was born in anger in a Broadway bar one August evening three years ago.

Behrman left New York last Friday to do a picture for Garbo. Anderson has completed a new drama and is at his home near New City, New York. Sherwood, back from a three-week visit to Arizona, where he went to find a little rest and with the hope that the Tucson air would benefit his sinus, also has a new drama. Rice, who has lived at the Ansonia hotel, next to Lauritz Melchior, for the last ten years, is "vacationing" in New York. He always vacations in NY.

THE Playwrights have their office on the 38th floor of the International Building, and it is a peculiar organization in many ways. None of the members ever asks the others what they are doing. If Rice should meet Sherwood in the hall he would as soon jump out of the window as ask, "Are you working on a play?"

They meet every Thursday and sit around a table, and discuss the productions they have in mind or on the board. Should one of them have a play ready, he says simply, "I've finished a play—copies will be sent to you tomorrow." Then, at the next meeting, they discuss the play. The other members may make suggestions for revisions. If the author is convinced, those revisions are made. If they are rejected, they are never mentioned again.

The playwrights this season have had three productions, and so far the season has been an unhappy one. "Journey to Jerusalem," by Anderson, was a quick failure. It lasted two weeks. I thought the play was a challenging and beautiful drama, but the public would have none of it. Then the company produced Elmer Rice's "Flight to the West." The was not a failure but it did not do the big things which its author had hoped. It was finally taken over by another company and is today being seen at a dollar tops.

A COUPLE of weeks ago the Playwrights brought Behrman's "The Tally Method," with Ina Claire, to Broadway. This seems to be their best bet of the season.

But if this has been a season of slim pickings, they should not complain. In their two previous seasons, during which nine plays were produced, they had some great successes. "There Shall Be No Night," with the Lunts, for instance, and "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

This association of dramatists came into being one night when Sherwood and Rice, disgusted with the way things on Broadway were going, left a guild meeting in a huff. As they descended in the elevator Rice said, "Why don't we form a company and produce our own plays?"

Sherwood thought that was a good idea. They retired to the Whelan bar and worked out their plans. They wired Behrman on the coast, and invited in Maxwell Anderson. Sherwood said he already had a play ready and would throw it in. They went into action, and that play was the great money maker, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

A Farmer's Diary

McGuffey Readers

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

NEXT to the Bible, I guess the most powerful influence that ever hit the American middle west was the moral and ethical code of the old McGuffey readers. If you went to country school you'll remember them. Either you learned from them yourself, or heard them quoted.

Henry Ford, whose early education was from these books, has reprinted the six readers of 1857 and distributed them to McGuffey lovers throughout United States. It is believed by many that a return to the social training of these readers by modern schools would assure a more dependable future for America. However that may be, the teachings of William Holmes McGuffey have influenced millions of today's parents and grandparents. (The parent of tomorrow may say, "And how!")

McGuffey believed that character was the aim of education. He saw to it that nobody could learn to be a villain from his books. In nearly 1,200 lessons, he covered practically the whole range of human behavior. His parables and poems and pictures gave ideals to the children who read them.

He called his books Eclectic readers—the word eclectic meaning "chosen from all—better than any." He went to literature and the Bible for his bits of material. "Anyone who was conversant with the great literature of the McGuffey readers could not be counted ignorant." If later, in college, a student studied the masters, he found them old friends with whom he already had a "train-ride acquaintance."

When McGuffey began, early in the 1800's, the middle West had few schools, few could read and write English, and speech was a mixture of dialects. Astutely, he chose his code so that it did not conflict with any religious faith—a real American idea. He stressed the virtues of kindness, humor, thrift, perseverance, faith, punctuality, justice, poise, tolerance, magnanimity, reverence, courage and gratitude. He taught love of country, and willingness to fight for it.

The common people of America loved those old readers. The common people of America love the best today. The fastest growing periodical on the news stands—Readers' Digest—has used this same principle of eclecticism in its compilation. Given opportunity, Americans will demand the best. How do they recognize it? Where did they get their standards? Where did you get yours? Where will our children get theirs? It may be worth thinking about.

She Loved a Spy + + + + + +

By Sylvia Taylor

(Copyright, 1941)

CHAPTER II

"Ah?" He opened a large silver box and took out a cigaret. "I was in the importing business myself, but the war stopped that. I am now opening this night club. I need a secretary to take care of the office work."

"I'm sure you'll find me satisfactory, Mr. Miller."

"You have references, of course?"

She hesitated. "No, Mr. Mulford was called out of town and I have been unable to reach him."

Karl Miller regarded her with his compelling blue eyes. Joan noticed his long, cool look, as he slightly lowered one eyelid and curved his mouth into a smile.

"If you are able to do the work, that will be sufficient. I want you to be here at night, but you won't have to come until early afternoon. Two hours off for dinner. The salary is fifty dollars a week."

Her green eyes widened. "Fifty dollars a week?"

His expression did not change as he said, "Considering the unusual hours, I feel that a smaller salary would not be fair recompense."

"I understand. When do you want me to start?"

"Two o'clock, tomorrow afternoon."

She rosed. "I'll be here."

"Just a minute, Miss Leland. I'll give you two weeks' salary in advance."

Joan colored. Did he think she needed money? "It won't be necessary."

He laughed. "You will find that I do busines in my own way. It is quite customary for me to pay my employes in advance."

She felt embarrassed and rebuffed as he wrote out a check and handed it to her, but she said quietly, "Thank you very much, Mr. Miller."

He opened the door for her and their hands touched on the knob. Blue eyes gazed into green. He was very close to her.

"I'll expect you tomorrow, then."

She felt a personal significance in each of these unimportant words.

"Good night, Mr. Miller!"

"Good night, Miss Leland." Again she noticed the soft, thick accent, the trick of speaking without moving the lips. He was still smiling as she closed the door.

It was almost eleven when Joan arrived home.

"You said you'd telephone," Sybil reminded her. 'What happened?"

Without removing hat or coat Joan sank down before the fire. "I got the job all right, Syb. It's a night club. A man named Karl Miller."

"You don't seem very excited," Sybil commented, watching her curiously.

"He's the most interesting man I've ever seen," Joan said softly.

"What goes on?" Sybil exploded. "Have you lost your mind?"

Joan rose and laughed shakily. "Sorry, Syb! Anyway, I have a job starting tomorrow and the salary is fifty dollars a week."

"Fifty dollars a week!" Sybil frowned. "There's something wrong with this picture! That's too good a salary for a job without a reference. I don't like it, Joan. What's this Karl Miller like?"

Joan yawned and went into the bedroom. "Take it easy, darling! No doubt he's an American citizen."

"How do you know?" Sybil demanded.

"I don't," Joan admitted, slipping into pale green pajamas. "Come on to bed, Syb. Let's not argue about it tonight."

Sybil opened the windows to the screaming wail of foghorns.

"What are your hours?"

"I don't have to be there until two and I work until around midnight."

"Joan, I'm not going to let you take that job! There's something phoney about it."

Joan pulled the covers up over her chin. Her hair spilled like liquid jet over the white pillow case.

"It will be fun working at a night club. I'm almost glad that Mr. Mulford fired me."

There was silence for a moment as both girls were absorbed in their own thoughts. The cold air rushed into the cheerful room. It was high-ceilinged, with twin beds, two dressing tables, a small desk and a chintz-covered rocker that matched the draperies.

Sybil wound the last golden curl on a bobby pin and tied a net over her hair. "You're getting into something. I have a feeling."

"At least I won't be bored. You know, Syb, I've always wanted to have something exciting happen to me."

"Something like Karl Miller?" Sybil questioned, shrewdly.

"Perhaps!"

Sybil snapped off the light. "Don't be foolish, Joan! You couldn't possibly be in love with a man you've met only once."

Joan smiled in the darkness. "Why not?"

"Because that isn't love! If you'd ever really been in love, you'd know the difference."

"Maybe I already know the difference." Joan thought, remembering a pair of shrewd blue eyes, an expressionless, beautifully shaped mouth, a powerfully built man wiht strangely incongruous hands, a man who spoke with a fascinating accent, a compelling voice . . .

"Infatuation and love are two different things," Sybil's voice cut through the darkness.

But Joan was hearing another voice, a voice that put intimacy into the most commonplace words as it said, "I'll expect you tomorrow. . . ."

San Francisco slept, covered by its mystic blanket of fog, lulled by the deep, dismal warnings that droned over the bay and along the coast. And presently Joan Leland slept too, her heart full of anticipation for tomorrow.

But Sybil lay awake, shivering in spite of the warm covers, wondering, almost afraid of a tomorrow that might be fraught with sinister signifance, significance she felt and mistrusted.

Joan's first day as Karl Miller's secretary was uneventful. The Club Elite was in the hands of painters and decorators who made so much noise and confusion that it penetrated even to the inner office. From two to five Joan worked harder than ever before in her life. Karl was particular. He watched every move she made. He scrutinized each letter she typed with a quick sweep of his blue eyes. His very presence made Joan nervous. She found her attention wandering from her typewriter to her employer. There was something strangely magnetic about Karl Miller. Something drew her to him, in spite of his apparent lack of interest.

"I want you to memorize every name in this book," he told her, indicating a small, leather volumne. "I speak to no one, in person, or over the telephone, unless the name is here. You understand?"

He took a red carnation from the vase on the desk, broke the stem and inserted the flower in his buttonhole. But his eyes did not miss the flicker of expression that crossed Joan's face when she opened the book and came to the name of Arthur Mulford.

"I told you I have been in the importing business. I knew your former boss."

"Yes, Mr. Miller." Joan was too good a secretary to question his word. She turned back to her typewriter. The office, though pleasantly decorated with Swedish modern furniture, had no windows opening on the street. It was located in the extreme rear of the building. The electric light was irritating, and Joan found herself longing for a breath of fresh air. But it was almost six o'clock before Karl said, "All right, Joan, you may go now. You don't have to be back until eight-thirty."

The unexpected use of her first name sent a thrill of anticipation through the girl. She paused a moment before she opened the door, hoping that he would say something else, but Karl turned his powerful shoulders abruptly and began talking over the telephone.

"I must be crazy." Joan told herself as she hurried down the long corridor. "He hasn't any more interest in me than if I were part of the furniture."

She had dinner at a small restaurant, sipping hot coffee gratefully. She remembered with a wry smile that Sybil was worried about her salary. She could understand now why Karl thought the job was worth 50 a week! She was as tired already as if she had put in a full day.

She lingered over her after-dinner cigaret and walked slowly back to work, pausing on the way to look in the shop windows. But she could not fill up two hours and a half and it was only a few minutes before eight when she pushed open the elaborately carved door of the Club Elite.

An orchestra was rehearsing in the dimly lit salon. Karl Miller sat on one of the gilt chairs listening. His keen eyes spotted Joan instantly.

"Sit down," he directed. "What do you think of the band?"

"It sounds grand." She felt the old sensation of self-consciousness. What was this peculiar excitement that seized her whenever he smiled at her?

He offered her a cigaret and her hand shook a little as she took it. She lifted embarrassed green eyes to his and saw that he was smiling.

"Is anything wrong, Joan?"

He was so sure of himself, so smooth. It made her feel like a schoolgirl. She felt positive that he knew the emotions that were racing through her heart. Positive that he knew the attraction he had for her. The knowledge made her reply almost haughtily in self-defense, "Nothing! Why should there be?"

AFTERNOON WEDDING PERFORMED AT HOME

Miss Marjorie Brooks Becomes Bride of William D. Muth In Quiet Ceremony Read By Rev. Roller Saturday.

TWENTY-SIX FRIENDS of Miss Marjorie Ilo Brooks learned of her recent marriage to William Dale Muth when her mother, Mrs. A. W. Wolfe, and her aunt, Mrs. Ella Lang of Toledo, entertained with an announcement party yesterday evening at the Susie Janis home on the Park avenue west road.

The guests learned the date of the nuptials, March 15, when tallies were distributed for the bridge games. Score prizes were won by the Misses Marjorie Leonard and Eleanor Ropp, and at a late hour, luncheon was served at a T-shaped table decorted with green and white appointments. Nosegays of green and white carnations marked the places of the guests.

The couple was married at 4:30 o'clock last Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wolfe, 150 Helen avenue. Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the service before an improvised altar banked with palms, ferns and two beauty vases of gladioli and Talisman roses, and lighted by two seven-branched candelabra.

The bride was attired in a powder blue silk and wool costume suit with navy blue accessories and an orchid shoulder corsage for her wedding. Mrs. Dudley W. Thomas was her only attendant, and she wore a navy blue dressmaker suit with matching and white accessories, and a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Mr. Muth, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Muth, Millsboro road, chose Mr. Thomas to be his best man. Mrs. Wolfe appeared at her daughter's wedding in a soldier blue velvet dress with shoulder corsage of Talisman roses and sweetpeas. Mrs. Muth wore a corsage of pink roses and sweetpeas with her powder blue crepe dress.

Following the ceremony, a buffet-luncheon was served to members of the immediate families and close friends. Mr. and Mrs. Muth are now making their home at 109 Massa avenue.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Muth were graduated from Mansfield Senior high school. The bride has been employed as cashier at the Ohio and Madison theaters, while Mr. Muth is the proprietor of the South End Medicine shop.

The first in a series of post-nuptial showers honoring Mrs. Muth will be given on March 25 by Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Alvin Bowser. The affair will be a crystal shower at the home of Mrs. Thomas, 563 Highland avenue.
